NORMANDY FRONT IN "A STATE OF STRAIN"

By WES GALLAGHER
Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, July 10—(AP)—Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British Second Army, starting to swing shut the door on Germans still standing across the Orne river in the southern suburbs of captured Caen, seized today a chain of Normandy towns and strongpoints guarding the enemy's imperiled flank.

Striking in typical hard-smiting Montgomery style, the British plunged eastward from their Odon bridgehead behind the embattled Germans in the suburb of Faubourg de Vaucelles, and captured Bretteville-sur-Odon, a mile southwest of Caen.

PROGRESS IS STILL SLOW ON ITALIAN FRONT

Doughboys Overcome Dogged Enemy Resistance To Capture Stronghold of Volterra

ADVANCE ON LIVORNO

By NOLAN NORGARD
Rome, July 10—(AP)—Overcoming dogged enemy resistance, American infantrymen who captured the German stronghold of Volterra yesterday have knifed forward another four miles and driven a significant wedge in the German defenses fronting the so-called "Gothic line." Allied headquarters announced today.

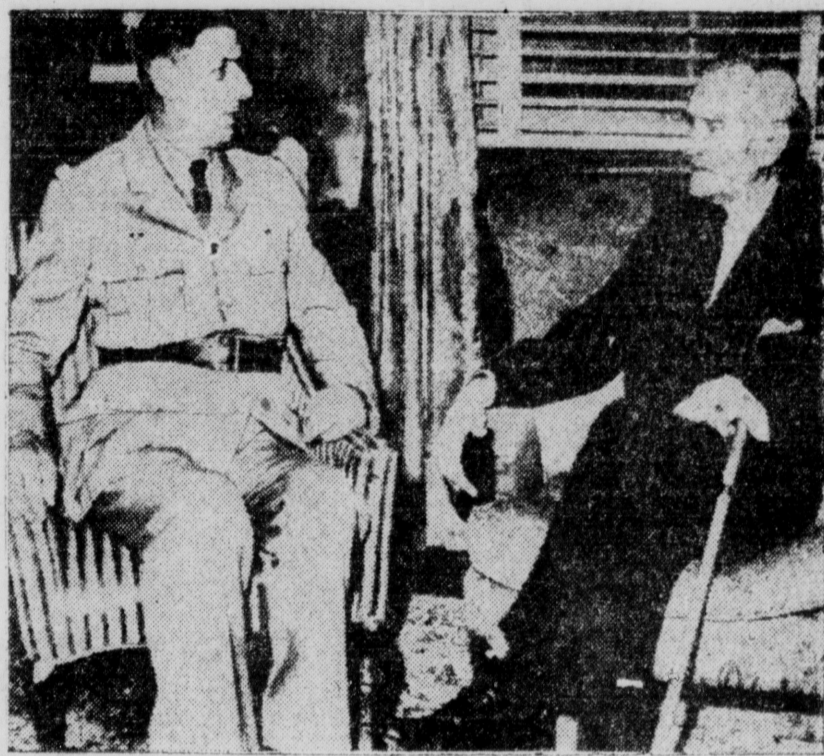

The action of the Doughboys in driving the Nazis from Volterra was described officially as a setback to the enemy's intention of imposing the maximum delay on the Fifth Army's drive toward the Arno river, in which are situated the cities of Florence and Pisa.

Progress, however, remained slow along the entire Italian front as the Germans continued to mass guns and troops and to fight desperately from every vantage point.

On the west coast, an Allied spokesman said, American troops made an advance of unspecified distance toward Livorno (Leghorn) despite heavy enemy fire of all kinds and widespread demolition. The troops in that sector were last reported only 10 miles from the big port.

Another American force moved up to attack Pomajia, eight miles inland and 14 miles southeast of (Turn to Page Nine)

Defeat on the Transportation Front Confronting Germany

By WADE WERNEK
Madrid, July 10—(AP)—Far behind the tumult and destruction on the great battlefronts of Normandy, Russia and Italy, the Germans are struggling desperately to stave off defeat on the transportation front—on which the defense of all the others depends.

The whole picture suggests the possibility the battle for Europe may be decided en route to the front—an Armageddon on wheels. The desperate situation on this far-flung front which links production areas with the armies is disclosed in German newspapers reaching Spain.

They appeal to the German people to understand the complete stoppage of railway traffic in certain areas, and not to lose patience. There are numerous articles glorifying railwaymen and urging them to still greater effort "under conditions of personal danger similar to the fighting front."

In addition there are reports of campaigns to divert every possible self-propelled or horse-drawn vehicle to supplement the dwindling capacity of the bomb-battered and sabotage ridden railway network.

DeGaulle Will Move Capital Into France

Washington, July 10—(AP)—General Charles De Gaulle, reporting his conversations with President Roosevelt had attained the "principal object" of creating a better understanding, announced today he would move his capital from Algiers to liberated French territory as soon as possible.

"I had very broad and frank conversations with President Roosevelt," De Gaulle told a press conference, adding that he was talking away with him "the best possible impression from my stay in the capital of the United States."

De Gaulle said President Roosevelt spoke to him of American responsibilities for the war and for the peace "with a breadth of view, a knowledge of the problems, and an idealism which particularly impressed me."

The general discussed his meeting with Mr. Roosevelt and other American officials just before taking a plane for New York. He spoke in French after an initial "good morning, ladies and gentlemen" in English.

First he read a statement expressing his satisfaction with the talks with the president, Secretary of State Hull and other officials. Then he answered questions freely.

A U. S. Bomber Base in Britain, July 10—(AP)—Sgt. Richard Gray of (4 Biddle St.) Warren, Pa., owes his life to another sergeant who was able to pinch hit for the pilot of a crippled Liberator bomber and bring the ship back from a recent raid on France.

The engineer-gunner, Sgt. Alvin J. Gibbons of Oakley, Utah, found the pilot wounded after several flack bursts had struck the bomber. The co-pilot had been knocked out and three crewmen had bailed out.

Gibbons, who learned to fly a tiny cub plane on his father's farm two years ago, got the plane back over England although it had no rudder, no hydraulic system and no instruments except the altimeter.

He kept the plane circling until the pilot, Sgt. Gray, Sgt. Ralph P. Murphy of Perryopolis, Pa., and two other crewmen bailed out. Then Gibbons jumped.

BOMBERS AID LAND FIGHTING IN NORMANDY

Improving Weather Paves Way For Aerial Support To Ground Forces on Peninsula

TRAINS ARE ATTACKED

By GLADWIN HILL
London, July 10—(AP)—Large forces of Allied bombers and fighters streamed across the English channel in improving weather today in support of the British and American troops advancing on the Normandy battlefront.

During the night RAF Mosquito and Boston bombers ranged deep into France and attacked 18 trains and railroads leading to the German front, highway convoys and Seine river bridges.

The Paris radio said Allied planes bombed northeast Paris this morning.

Mosquitos bombed a synthetic oil plant at Boer last night. Lancasters with fighter cover attacked an unidentified military objective in northern France. Other RAF planes laid mines in enemy waters and not an aircraft was lost in the night operations.

German reinforcements struggling westward across the Seine near the coast just east of Le Havre on ferries and pontoon bridges were bombed and strafed over a 30-mile stretch between Quillebeuf and Duclair.

The German radio said single Allied raiders were over northwest Germany early this morning. German positions only 50 yards ahead of Canadian troops were attacked by Typhoons that swooped in no more than 100 feet over the soldiers' heads.

The Allied strategic air campaign against the German war effort was carried forward yesterday by about 1,000 U. S. heavy bombers which flew in from the west and south escorted by a like number of fighters while many formations of other types continued direct tactical support of the Normandy beachhead.

MONETARY MEETING AT HALF-WAY MARK

Bretton Woods, N. H., July 10—(AP)—An air of almost smug satisfaction hung over the United Nations monetary conference today although the discussions reached the half-way point without a single publicly announced decision on a major point.

Most of the 43 foreign delegations indicated belief that no plan for postwar international cooperation could succeed without United States participation, that campaigns based on narrow issues of national self-interest would dig a way short of a threatened stalemate.

Wallace Back in Washington To See Chief

Washington, July 10—(AP)—Vice-President Wallace returned to the capital this morning from Seattle by plane, and the White House announced he would report later today to President Roosevelt on his mission to China and Russia.

Presidential Secretary Stephen Early said Wallace originally expected to call at the White House tomorrow but his return, somewhat earlier than had been expected, caused the alteration of plans. Seattle, Wash., July 10—(AP)—A post-war "era of the Pacific" marked by vast international airlines and communications systems through areas now thinly populated is forecast by Vice President Henry A. Wallace.

In a nationwide broadcast yesterday on his return from China and Siberian Russia, Wallace asserted "trade with Russia and China will help keep the factories of America busy in the days that lie ahead," and said he was "convinced that a main area of development after this war x x x will be in the new world of the north Pacific and eastern Asia."

He was in Seattle only briefly to make his address, then left for Washington, D. C., where he said he would report to the president Tuesday.

Conquest of Saipan Clears Way For Direct Strikes To Vitals of Japanese Empire

By J. B. KRUEGER
Associated Press War Editor

United States forces have conquered Saipan, clearing the way for direct strikes from the western Pacific into the vitals of Japan's empire.

The capital island of the Marianas fell Saturday after 25 days of the bloodiest, costliest fighting in all of Adm. Chester W. Nimitz' drive across the Pacific from Pearl Harbor.

Saipan is 1,450 miles south of Tokyo and 1,640 miles east of Manila. The leap from the Marshall Islands to Saipan advanced the Americans 1,150 miles westward.

Now for the first time land-based bombers are in position to raid Manila and the Japanese homeland from the Pacific.

Japan breathed hard from other body blows suffered in its many-front Pacific war. Noemfoor island, off northwest New Guinea and within 800 miles of the southern Philippines, was in Gen. Douglas MacArthur's hands. All resistance there ended a day ahead of Saipan's collapse, adding another nest of airfields for Allied use.

Chinese troops tightened a clamp on Japanese troops trying to remount their siege of strategic Hongkang in south-central China. In Burma organized enemy resistance collapsed at Uthukuli. Japanese base inside the northeast India border. The shattered army, failed in its attempt to paralyze Allied supply routes, was fighting furiously to escape annihilation at the hands of the British.

Probably 95 per cent—or 19,000—of the Japanese garrison perished in defending the island. Civilians surrendered by the hundreds. A stockade also held a crowd of unwounded Japanese soldiers, a rare spectacle in the Pacific war.

There remained a mop-up job and the island flanking Saipan, including Guam, Rota, Tinian and Pagan, have to be taken or neutralized.

U. S. casualties through June 28 were 1,474 dead and 8,278 wounded.

Unidentified Being Buried Second Place At Hartford On Dem Ticket Still In Doubt

Hartford, Conn., July 10—(AP)—Hartford prepared today to bury its six unidentified dead as the death list of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus fire of last Thursday mounted to 157 with the death today of Frank Foglitsch, eight year old son of a New Britain physician, whose mother perished in the blaze.

The unidentified, three children, two women and one man, will be buried in individual graves in Northwood Cemetery, Mayor William M. Mortensen has announced.

All possible data concerning the unidentified victims will be tabulated and preserved for future reference and possible identification, the mayor stated. These will include dental charts, body measurements and other pertinent facts.

The clergymen will be Dr. Warren S. Archibald of the South End Congregational church; Rabbi Morris Silverman of Emanuel Synagogue; and the Rev. Thomas F. Looney of St. Michael's church, who was the first clergyman to who was the first clergyman to (Turn to Page Nine)

Soviets Tighten Up On Divorces

By EDDIE GILMORE
Moscow, July 10—(AP)—The Supreme Soviet has issued a sweeping decree to strengthen family life by making divorces more difficult to obtain and by granting increased financial aid for large families.

Causing a sensation throughout Russia, the decree made divorces as hard or harder to obtain in the Soviet Union than in some parts of the United States, and provided for payment ranging up to a lump sum of 5,000 rubles, or about $950, at birth of an 11th child, plus a monthly payment of 500 rubles, or $57.

In the past, if both a husband and wife wanted a divorce, they could obtain one within a few minutes upon application at a registration office.

DOOMED CITY BELIEVED NEAR CAPITULATION

Broadcast Says Defenders Are "Barricaded in Center of Town Fighting House to House"

APPROACHING KAUNAS

BULLETIN
London, July 10—(AP)—The British press said tonight that the Russians had advanced to a point within 60 miles of East Prussia.

London, July 10—(AP)—The Red army, fighting less than 100 miles from East Prussia and on both sides of Wilno, has cut the rail line between Daugavpils (Dvinsk) and Kaunas, the pre-war capital of Lithuania, a German broadcast said today.

Northeast of Wilno, troops of the Baltic front, sweeping up more than 700 towns, captured Druja, little more than a mile from the Latvian border. Also seized was Braslav, southwest of Druja and only 25 miles from Daugavpils, Moscow announced.

Fighting for the second day in the streets of Wilno, the former Polish-ruled city which the Russians transferred to Lithuania in 1940, the Russians appeared to have that ancient center of Baltic civilization on the verge of capitulation, Moscow dispatches said.

The German broadcast said the Nazi defenders had "barricaded themselves in the center of the city. House after house was defended the most stubbornly and the Soviets are paying with the highest sanguinary losses for every meter of ground gained in the shattered town."

The Berlin commentator, Walter Platto, said the Russians had reached the Kaunas-Daugavpils road in the neighborhood of Otena where (Turn to Page Nine)

Soldier Vote Big Factor in Election

Harrisburg, July 10—(AP)—A soldier vote registration of more than 510,000 in Pennsylvania presents leaders of both Republican and Democratic parties with a major question in calculating their chances of victory at the November presidential election.

With a Republican registration of 2,500,000 and a Democratic enrollment of 1,725,000 in the state, the party chiefs concede that such a big bloc of votes could be a big factor in the result but, they point out, the big question is how many of the service men and women will vote.

In 1942 when Governor Martin was elected with a vote of 1,367,373 against 1,149,897 for the Democratic opponent, Auditor General F. Clair Ross, only 10,592 soldier votes were recorded. The 1943 municipal election saw only 9,095 soldier votes and the figure was further reduced in the April primary this year.

Dates Announced for Tin Can And Waste Paper Collections

A stepped-up salvage effort all along the line is planned for the month of July, according to an announcement made this morning by W. T. Corbett, Chairman of the Warren County Salvage Committee.

This all-out effort will crystallize around two important collections: 1, tin can collection on Wednesday, July 12th and 2, a paper collection on Wednesday, July 19th.

In the tin can collection it is hoped that Warren County will be able to fill another gondola car which holds approximately 20 gross tons or 300,000 cans. To date we have shipped 7 carloads.

In Warren borough the collection on Wednesday will be a curb-pickup, as well as Glade and Pleasant townships. Because of the shortage of trucks the collection in Sheffield, Clarendon, Tiona, Barnes and that area will be made on Thursday.

The Youngville collection will be on Wednesday along with Warren.

The following regional chairman will be in charge in their respective areas: Sheffield, Donald P. Brooks; Youngville, Elton D. Barton; Russell, John Moll; Clarendon, Gilbert Nelson.

Tin cans should be properly processed by rinsing out, leaving the moved, both ends cut and folded in and the can flattened. All cans should be on the curb early Wednesday, July 12th.

With reference to the paper pick-up, this will also be a curb pick-up in Warren borough, Glade and Pleasant townships, Tiona, Russell, Sheffield, and Youngville. In Warren borough and Glade and Pleasant townships the collection will be made by the Warren Disposal Company, as well as Warren borough trucks and men, and volunteer workers. In Russell the collection will be made by borough trucks as well as in Youngville. In Sheffield trucks from the Sheffield Glass Bottle Works will do the job Thursday.

Paper should be separated into three classifications: 1. Ordinary Paper. 2. Magazines. 3. Cardboard and Kraft Paper. It should be on the curb early Wednesday morning, July 19th.

Showers In County Fail To Wet Warren

The arid spell that has caused gardens to wilt about town, lawns to turn yellow and the golf course at the Conewango Club to burn and scar. The mercury over the weekend stayed at a high degree and the humidity was such that much suffering from the heat was occasioned.

Need of rain in and about the city is great and farmers about the county are also complaining that the dryness is affecting crops. Berries in the woods are also drying and where large crops of wild berries were expected observers state that the dry hot weather has caused the berries in many instances to be so dry they are falling off the bushes.

Rain did fall in some sections of the county last night. One nice shower is reported from Chanders Valley where copious showers relieved the situation but Sugar Grove and Warren were passed by. At Big Bend another shower was reported and rain fell there for some time.

Last night about 11 o'clock a few drops of water fell in Warren but the clouds passed over and seemingly split one portion north and the other in a southerly direction. Yesterday afternoon it is reported that one heavy clou of thunder was heard.

Broadcast Schedule For Dem Convention

New York, July 10—(P)—Broadcast schedules for the Democratic convention, as announced in advance by the network schedule for transmission from the Chicago stadium of two sessions each on July 19 and 20, with air time set for 1 and 10 p. m. If a third day is required, broadcasts will continue in accordance with session times.

The planned schedule. July 19—1:00 p. m. opening session, Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago, Sen. Scott Lucas of Illinois and Robert E. Hannegan, national chairman.

10 p. m. First night session, Gov. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, temporary chairman, in keynote address.

July 20—1:00 p. m. second day, address of permanent chairman, Sen. Samuel D. Jackson of Indiana, and platform report.

10 p. m. Night session, address of Helen Gahagan Douglas, nominating speeches and roll call of candidates.

NOTICE

Dr. R. E. Otterbein will be out of town from July 10th to August 1st. Office will remain open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. until July 15th.

One of the most thrilling and interesting jobs available is in the control tower. In a room barred to all but its operating personnel a member of the Women's Army Corps calls a code number into a radio microphone and issues a crisp order to the control tower. On the concrete ramp a flying fortress that has been warming up its motors, taxis to the runway, executes a swift turn-about and thunders into the wind. Another bomber is on its way to help our men fighting on the invasion shore.

No WACS are aboard but many WACS aided in getting that ship and its men off. There were many vital jobs that had to be done, such as typing the orders, the weather forecast to be prepared, the supplies to be issued, the motor and radio to be checked. Many jobs that a WAC can do.

There are 239 jobs open for WACS. The Women's Army Corps offers eligible women an opportunity to improve their skill or to learn new ones that will open to them profitable and interesting careers in the postwar world.

"Uncle" George Metzgar Will Be 100 Years Old July 15th

George W. Metzgar, at one time station master here for the Pennsylvania Railroad, will celebrate his 100th birthday anniversary Saturday, July 15, at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Johnson, 16 West 15th street, Tulsa, Okla.

Mr. Metzgar was born at York, July 15, 1844, and entered the service of the railroad company June 18, 1861, as locomotive freeman, advancing to engineer February 2, 1862. On May 20, 1868, he lost his right leg below the knee as the result of a railroad accident at Royston, and was promoted to the position of foreman of Warren enginehouse November 23, 1871. He incurred an injury March 17, 1897, which made it necessary to amputate his left leg below the knee. Following recovery from this accident he was made station master, from which position he retired August 1, 1914, under the company's pension rules.

Mr. Metzgar will doubtless receive the usual "shower" of greeting cards from his friends in Warren and vicinity.

Ten Stringed Instruments For Hospitals

The camp and hospital committee of the local Red Cross chapter announces it is sending ten stringed musical instruments to be used in one of the area hospitals. All were given to the committee by individuals, following a recent plea for such gifts, and have been put in perfect condition by Al Lucia.

The committee feels it is a pleasure to be able to send so many instruments to these hospitals for use by the convalescent soldiers and that anyone having a part in the program may be assured of the pleasure to be derived from the gifts.

On its present request list for use in an army hospital, the committee has a plea for a used portable typewriter and two small radios.

Again the committee seeks the public's help in filling the request. Anyone having such articles is asked to get in touch with Red Cross headquarters or Mrs. T. L. Armstrong and the articles will be called for and put in condition before being sent on to the area hospital.

Will Triple District Flood Control For Post War Work

Washington, July 10—With six flood control dams already in operation for the protection of Pittsburgh and other Western Pennsylvania communities, U. S. Engineers will have almost three times as much work authorized and available for post-war construction.

The six reservoirs now in operation upstream from Pittsburgh, constructed before the war and complete except for minor details and some road relocations, cost 49½ million dollars and were credited with taking three feet off the crest of the New Year's Eve flood of 1942 at Pittsburgh.

Five additional flood control dams already authorized by Congress would call for a total construction cost of $80,885,000 and two other projects for the protection of Ohio River communities, included in the pending flood control bill, would boost the total to 148 million dollars.

One of the dams now under consideration in the flood control bill alone would reduce a maximum flood at Pittsburgh by 1.4 feet. It is the proposed Rowlesburg reservoir on the Cheat River in West Virginia, to cost $29,230,000.

Everts Store Established Here in 1904

The E. D. Everts Hardware Company which has been acquired by Russell Hanson, mentioned in which was made in Friday's issue, was established by the late E. D. Everts in Warren in 1904 and continued until Mr. Everts died December 25, 1926, when the entire business passed into the hands of his wife, Mrs. Laura E. L. Everts, who conducted the business successfully for seventeen years.

G. C. Wright, a valued employee was selected by Mrs. Everts as her first manager and served until he became County Treasurer.

C. A. McMichael, another capable employee was then selected by Mrs. Everts as manager. Mr. McMichael served until his death in 1937.

On January first, J. Russell Hanson, one of the younger clerks of the force was chosen by Mrs. Everts to carry on her work as Manager. Russell continued in that important position until June 30, 1944, when the E. D. Everts Hardware was sold to him and he will continue the well known and established business under the firm's name, The E. D. Everts Hardware Company.

Local Pastor Has Call To New Charge

During the regular evening service on Sunday in the Pilgrim Holiness church, Pastor L. W. Drury read his resignation, to take effect in the immediate future.

Rev. Drury came to the local church in the summer of 1937 from pastored Bible Institute and pastored for three years.

Under his ministry, the local church has made a marked progress, the Sunday school having practically doubled in attendance. At present the church is being enlarged to double the seating capacity.

Conference was held last week at Mt. Pleasant and the local man received an unanimous call to the Armbrust church of the same denomination in Westmoreland county.

It is not known as yet who will be coming to the Warren church but Rev. Drury will be speaking each Sunday until he moves to his new field.

jects authorized or to be authorized are larger than the largest of the existing dams, that on the Tygart River. Appropriations by Congress will be necessary when they are selected for construction by the U. S. Engineers.

It was indicated that the Conemaugh and Allegheny River dams would be the first selected for construction, as engineers now are making detailed planning investigations for both projects.

The flood control bill also contains a provision for a Turtle Creek reservoir in Allegheny county, to cost $2,613,000 but its benefits will be for the Turtle Creek valley alone, alleviating creek floods, preventing back flooding from the Monongahela River and improving low-flow pollution.

Obituary

Unless otherwise stated, visiting hours at Warren's funeral homes are from 10 a. m. to 12; 2 to 5 and 7 to 9 p. m.

J. HOUGHVOT RUSSELL

J. Houghvot Russell, born at Russell April 11, 1876, died at his home, 209 Jackson street, at 1:25 a. m. Saturday. He leaves his wife, Winifred, two daughters and one son, Miss Irene, of Warren; Mrs. Pauline Miller and Carl Russell, of Philadelphia; three grandchildren; one brother, Lyle Russell, of Russell.

Funeral services were held at two o'clock this afternoon in the family home, conducted by Rev. Harold Knappenberger and followed by interment in Pine Grove cemetery at Russell.

MRS. IDA SIGWORTH

Funeral services for Mrs. Ida Sigworth were held on Friday, with Rev. J. E. Kiffer, of the local Free Methodist church, conducting a prayer service from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Roy Roberts, 118 Oak street, and rites in the afternoon from the Guilfoyle Methodist church. Rev. Korb officiated there and the following were bearers for interment in the church cemetery: Carl Roberts, Jr., Walter Roberts, Don Dolby, Delmar Dorsett, Ralph and Elmo Murray, Mary Sigworth, of Warren, Dorothy and Carmen Hendrickson, of Youngsville, sang two favorite hymns, "Overs in Glory" and "Never Grow Old."

The services were largely attended by friends from far and near and the following relatives were among those from away: Mr. and Mrs. Don Dolby, Mr. and Mrs. Don Dolby, Freda Nowall and Marion Dolby, Oil City; Dorothy and Carmen Hendrickson and Esther Roberts, Youngsville; Mrs. Alvin Roberts, Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bidwell, Newport, R. I.; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Swaven, Bradford.

ARNOLD A. ANDERSON

Funeral services in memory of Arnold A. Anderson were held from his home in Snethport at 2 p. m. Friday, conducted by Rev. Russell Lundgren, of the Swedish Lutheran church. Burial was in the beautiful McKean Memorial Park cemetery at LaFayette.

Members of the immediate family who came from a distance were Lt. Willard Anderson, who returned to this country in April after two years overseas, and his wife, from Aberdeen, Md.; Lt. and Mrs. Bryce Pierce and small son, of Laredo, Texas; Cpl. and Mrs. Clyde Lynch, New Cumberland; Arthur Anderson, Bogati, N. J.

Relatives from Warren who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Magnus Hilburn, Mrs. Alma Seagist, Violet Seagist and Mrs. Harold Anderson.

Mr. Anderson passed away at his home at 9:15 a. m. July 4. He had seemed in unusually good health and had just prepared a fire in the fireplace of his back yard in preparation for a picnic breakfast with relatives and a neighbor. He was stricken suddenly and died before a physician arrived.

MAYNARD MACK

Maynard Mack, 42, former well known resident, son of Mrs. Fred Mack, 416 Fourth avenue, passed away suddenly at his home 120 Bailey avenue, Mt. Washington, Pittsburgh, Saturday night. Services are being held there tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock. Besides his wife, he is survived by

Defense Unit Hears Salvage Work Report

The Warren County Defense Council held a short meeting Friday afternoon in the offices of the group on Market street. Chairman Allen Gibson was unable to be present due to illness, and Vice Chairman P. C. Ostergard presided in his stead.

Report was made on the Salvage work done during the past month and Chairman Corbett was enthusiastic over the fact that during the month the county exceeded its quota for waste paper. The quota set for the county was 213 tons and in all 214½ tons were collected. This brought $436.24 into the fund for the USO. It is interesting to note that the Salvage Committee has given thousands of dollars to the Red Cross, USO, Salvation Army and other charitable causes. One hundred dollars has been earmarked for the Times-Mirror Alias Santa Claus Fund to be raised next Christmas.

Other salvage figures for last month showed that 423 tons of steel scrap were gathered and shipped; 66,250 pounds of rags were shipped and 28598 pounds of brass and copper were shipped. The collection of fats has fallen down due to the fact that during the hot weather it cannot be handled by housewives as the heat keeps it almost in a liquid state. Mr. Corbett also reported that he had taken 200 cartons to Sheffield where the Central Pennsylvania Lumber Company is cleaning out its files and has hundreds of pounds of old letters. These bring a much higher price than does waste newspaper. The money derived from the sale of the old letters will be divided among three churches.

Oris Brown, secretary of the Defense Council reported that 2082 cards of absentee voters had been turned in to the Council and 3000 absentee voters would be entitled to it was expected that close to rolled before the campaign came to an end in the county.

It was also reported that gasoline has been secured for the volunteer truckmen engaged in the salvage drives. So far 600 gallons of gasoline have been consumed in the hauling of 150 carloads of salvaged material.

A tin can pick-up will be held on Wednesday of this week when every householder is urged to have their cans on the curb. Another wastepaper drive will take place on July 19.

During the meeting Ed C. Lowery and Clare A. Berger, of The Times-Mirror were presented with citations and ribbons for their work in the handling of the war work publicity.

Approximately one-fourth of the land surface of the United States is still forested.

UNDERGROUND COMES OUT IN OPEN

The climax of the French underground's battle is approaching, the climax toward which they have toiled for four dangerous, heartbreaking years. The Allies have landed, have approved appointment of French Gen. Joseph Pierre Koenig as their commander-in-chief, and have distributed arms and munitions for 75,000 men.

The underground, coming into the open almost immediately after the Normandy landings, already has tied up large German forces in southern and southeastern France. We shall be hearing more from it. But already it has done more than most of us here in America realize.

We read that 40 per cent of German shells are duds, that there is a bottleneck in German plane replacement parts, that German troops and supplies are delayed by transportation tie-ups. And for this we can thank the underground as well as our Allied flyers.

The underground began in the shattered wreckage of a defeated France. Its organizers trained men and women for sabotage. The underground counteracted German lies, converted wavering patriots, published newspapers, wrecked enemy transportation and communication, and poisoned food going to Germany.

The members met in Paris subways and bombed-out houses. They stole arms, and transported them under Germans' noses. They were cold and hungry and sick, but they kept the spirit of free France alive, and kept the Allies informed of important German military developments by secret radio. Now, though still insufficiently armed, they create valuable diversionary assistance to the advancing armies of liberation.

It remains to be seen whether the approaching end of the underground's long fight will also mark the beginning of an end to the lamentable friction between the Allies and General De Gaulle. But the prospects look more hopeful than at any previous time, despite the general's petulance at the time of invasion.

Certainly General Eisenhower's approval of the Koenig appointment pleases the underground as well as General De Gaulle. For whatever London and Washington may think of Koenig, his popularity within France seems to be solid and widespread.

Doubtless the talks between President Roosevelt and General De Gaulle will advance Allied-French relations closer to a happy ending. Much hard fighting remains, and many difficulties must still be settled, but this long-delayed understanding is a prime requisite.

GRATIFYING WEEK-END

This has been a gratifying week-end for Allied arms the world around, with substantial victories recorded in Normandy and Russia, and American completion of the bloody conquest of the strategic island of Saipan in the central Pacific.

The Allies have made important progress in Normandy. They finally have ripped the German battle-line loose from its bitterly defended anchors at both ends. The Canadians and British took the ancient city of Caen on the Nazi eastern flank after 35 days of hell, while the Americans captured La Haye Du Puits on the western wing in the face of stubborn resistance.

The fall of Caen is of particular importance because this inland port and railway center was the key point of the German defense of the Peninsula. Had we been able to take this stronghold early in the invasion, it would have made a great difference in our progress in breaking into the French hinterland—progress which the Allied command had hoped would be much further ahead than it is now.

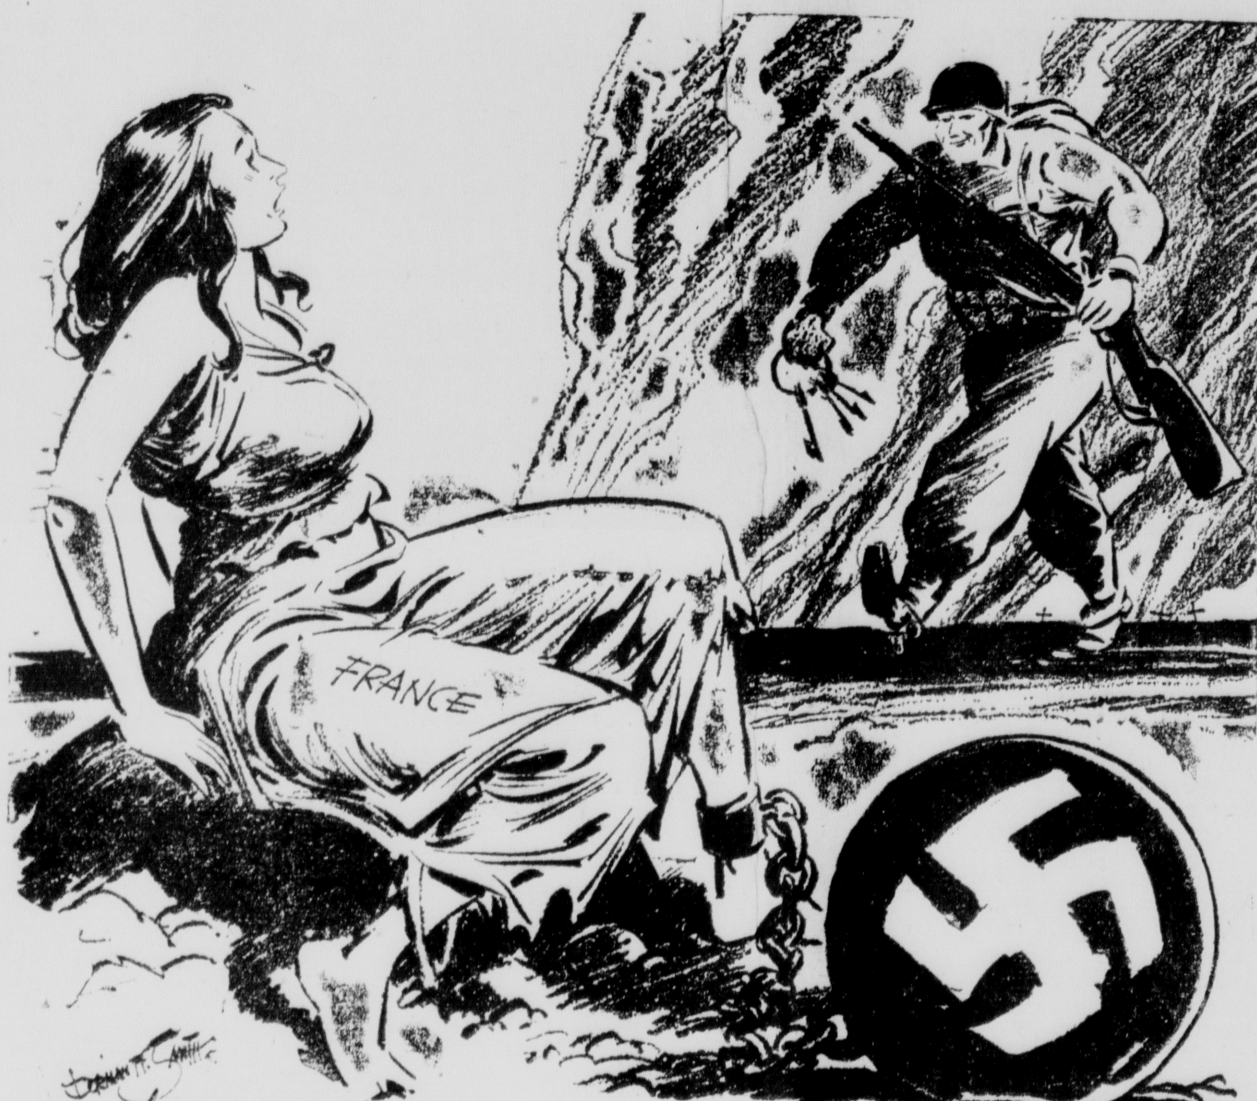

However, supreme Allied headquarters cautions us not to regard the victory at Caen as a major defeat of the Germans in the field, although it is a "serious reverse." The significance of the capture of Caen and La Haye Du Puits is that it paves the way for the decisive battle which we must win before we can free the peninsula of the enemy and thereby enable our forces to reach the open roads to Paris and Berlin. This great clash may be expected soon.

Over on the eastern front the great Russian offensive was surging forward with a speed and force which threatened to produce a collapse of the German defense of the Baltic states and East Prussia.

The American conquest of Saipan is a major victory. This island is the best airbase we have in the central Pacific and its possession opens up great possibilities. From Saipan our super-bombers can reach both Tokyo and the Philippines, which lie approximately 1,500 miles away, and we can bomb important Japanese sea communications. This island also affords great possibilities as a naval supply base.

The twenty-five day battle of Saipan was a sanguinary affair. Associated Press War Correspondent Rembert James says that probably 95 percent of the Jap force, estimated at more than 20,000 was destroyed.

Bastille Day—1944

Stamp News

ICELAND, which became the world's youngest republic June 17 after voting its independence from Denmark, marked the event with a set of six stamps picturing Jon Sigurdsson, Icelandic historian and early leader in the drive to establish independence. The date "June 17, 1944" also appears on the stamps.

Appropriately, Sigurdsson's birthday also was June 17. He was born in 1811 and it was mainly through his efforts that Iceland obtained a constitution from Denmark. He died in 1879. Values of the six stamps are 10, 25 and 50 auroar and 1, 5 and 10 kronur.

A five centavos blue and white stamp was issued by Argentina to mark the first anniversary of the June 4, 1943 revolution in which the government of President Ramon S. Castillo was overthrown by an army group led by Gen. Pedro Ramirez. The latter was ousted himself last February in favor of Gen. Edelmiro Farrell, currently president. From Argentina also comes word that the postal authorities have abandoned plans to issue semi-postal stamps annually to raise funds for postal employees. The first set was issued early this year but apparently did not meet with public favor.

IATE last year, French-man-dated Lebanon refused to accept former Premier Emil Eddeh for another term of office, proclaimed its independence and created an incident that drew the attention of the Allies. Eventually Eddeh disappeared and Lebanon was granted self-government by the French National Committee of Liberation.

During the incident all stamps bearing Eddeh's portrait were burned. To replace these issues Lebanon announces that a set of 10 stamps soon will be issued.

Our Merchant Marine

They Should Know

Our Navy relies on the Merchant Marine. No maritime nation has ever been able to fight a war successfully without an adequate Merchant Marine, declares Admiral Ernest J. King, Commander-in-Chief, U.S. Fleet.

Our armies everywhere are dependent upon our Merchant Marine. General Dwight D. Eisenhower says: "When final victory is ours there is no organization that will share its credit more deservedly than the Merchant Marine."

Plans of the Chief of Staff hinge upon the Merchant Marine. General George C. Marshall declared that our Merchant Marine is making it possible to transport fighting men and supplies wherever they are needed to defeat the enemy.

- Fast acceleration cuts gas mileage as much as 20-30 per cent. Accelerate gradually in first and second speeds.
- Quick starting and stopping wastes gas! Maintain even speed; anticipate traffic stops.
- Drive at moderate speeds; 20-30 M.P.H. is the most economical. On the highway, don't exceed 35 M.P.H.
- Under-inflated tires increase rolling resistance and tire wear! Check tire inflation weekly.
- Dragging brakes waste gas! Keep brakes properly adjusted. For safety, have them relined if necessary.
- Have your car lubricated regularly—make sure your oil filter is working efficiently. Replace if needed.
- Evaporation occurs faster in hot weather. Don't neglect the battery. Add water frequently as needed.
- A dirty or neglected cleaner impairs engine performance. Have the air-cleaner inspected and cleaned if necessary.

Army Appeals For Women To Be Technicians

Announcement has been made by Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, surgeon general, that the Army needs 22,000 women immediately to serve as medical technicians in hospitals and the Women's Army Corps has been assigned the task of recruiting these workers.

A WAC officer has been assigned to interview applicants in western Pennsylvania and all inquiries may be addressed to the Officer Procurement District office, 2003 Clark Building, Pittsburgh.

According to army officers, openings in 15 classifications of medical technicians offer opportunities for women never before presented by the Women's Army Corps. The technicians are assured of training and definite assignments in a specific field for medical department work, provided they manifest the proper qualifications and meet the army physician requirements.

Teachers, social workers and college students with backgrounds related to the technical subjects offered in the 15 categories are being sought. High school students will be eligible for some of the jobs after training in an army school.

Specific classes of technicians being sought by the WAC include pharmacists, optometrists, psychiatric social workers, orthopedic, laboratory, dental and x-ray technicians. Trained workers for the blind and deaf, occupational therapists and educational/reconditioning personnel are also needed.

When Buffaloes Stopped the Iron Horse ...TRAVELERS WERE PATIENT

Remembering the hardships of the stagecoach and covered wagon days, travelers once looked upon the new woodburner trains as solid luxury... despite choking smoke, bumpy roadbeds; no electric lights, no berths or dining cars... despite delays of hours on end when great herds of migrating buffaloes marooned them in the middle of an endless prairie.

Today, if the train, plane or bus is late, if reservations are hard to get or we can't squeeze into the dining car, we can still take comfort in the fact that America is moving at a pace that has astounded the world.

When this war is won, the transportation facilities of our country will have hung up an incredible record for efficient movement of fighting men and freight—and civilians, too. Meanwhile, public opinion is agreed that we should not travel unless absolutely necessary and, if we must go, take inconveniences cheerfully and patiently—like good soldiers.

In addition to supplying the armed forces with glider and bomber fuselage frames, wing parts, gun turret parts and foodstuffs, Anheuser-Busch produces materials which go into the manufacture of: Rubber • Aluminum • Munitions • Medicines • B Complex Vitamins • Hospital Diets • Baby Foods • Bread and other Bakery products Vitamin-fortified cattle feeds • Batteries • Paper • Soap and Textiles—to name a few.

Chapter 4
DIRK asked, grimly, "Moira, that night we followed you to the Cove, and you escaped back to the house underground, did you know about Josh's body in the tunnel?"

Moira's lips were stiff. "Yes," she said. "I did. And I reasoned that Gil hadn't had an opportunity to dispose of his body. And that night I thought you were Gil! I had discovered the tunnel from the Cove to the shop and what was hidden there, a few days before that. I found traces on the shop end of the tunnel where the door had been changed to swing into the tunnel instead of into the shop. The row of barrels stacked in there provided an effective barrier. I suppose Gil had used the tunnel for secret trips to the Cove to deliver information to spies posing as fishermen, before he hit on the more direct method of shipping information in the candles."

"Why," Spring asked, frowning over all the questions pushing into her mind, "did you walk at night? Were you afraid of Gil, Aunt Drue?"

"I was afraid for the others in the house," Drusilla answered, her blue eyes bleak. "I tried to keep watch on Gil. I knew he was leaving the house at night, but I couldn't find how. I didn't know about the tunnel."

"Did... did you see Jo?" Spring faltered helplessly.

Drusilla paled. "I was in the front parlor when it happened. I heard you go through the hall. After that I couldn't talk."

him and police would have held you."

Spring trembled with a sudden recollection of horror. "Oh! Then it wasn't Moira on the stairs! It was Gil!"

"No," Moira corrected, "I was the one on the stairs! I had been down to the Cove to contact the Coast Guard ship off shore. I think Gil was bluffing about seeing you, Spring, it was just a threat to Drusilla that happened to strike true."

"What," Justen spoke now, "did Jo mean by those three words she tried to tell us, 'the beaver moved?'"

Dirk looked at Moira. She said: "I knew. But my own information was linked with the other serious problem concerning many more lives, the leakage of shipping and production and troop stationing news that Gil was sending Axis agents in England. You see, Jo had apparently wandered down into the back parlor that night, sleeplessness, or something. We all know she loved Elwan, that was what caused her antagonism toward Spring. In the dark, Gil didn't know anyone was in the back parlor, and the tunnel we used tonight from the back parlor to the shop, was the passageway Gil used in his night trips. He came through the entrance back of the suit of armor."

"The suit of armor!" Spring echoed.

"Yes, I discovered that one day when Gil and Theron had gone into town. You know how the armor is set in that little niche in the east wall? Well, I discovered there was something odd about the way the armor was mounted and I found it wasn't really mounted against the wall itself, but that the section of the wall is hollow and opens into the suit of armor. The armor had been welded in such a fashion that the front section swung open, like a mummy case. All Gil had to do to see if the coast was clear each time was to move the beaver. And that night he saw Jo."

"The beaver!" Justen ejaculated. "That's what Jo said! What are you talking about?"

"That's what Mrs. Manning discovered tonight," Dirk said heavily. "She had the inspiration to look in the dictionary and found that a beaver, beside being an animal, is the part of the headgear of a suit of armor, the thing we would call a visor."

SPRING grasped it all slowly. There was so much to comprehend. There was so much that was evil and sinister. So much of horror crowded into one terrible week.

"But," she asked, "how could Gil have known that Great Aunt Adelaide knew?"

"Because," Dirk said grimly, "he surprised Mrs. Manning in the very same way he did Jo. By a superhuman effort fostered by her determination to catch Jo's killer, she had propelled herself into her wheel chair and across the hall down into the back parlor tonight."

Spring remembered the gray heap on the couch and her throat ached suddenly. "Aunt Adelaide went in there!"

Dirk nodded. "Gil stepped out, carelessly, and Adelaide saw him. He killed her and then pushed the chair back into her room. Then he signaled for Theron to the shop and arranged for Theron to ring the bell after Gil had time to escape up the back stairs to his room. But he made a bad mistake. While it was possible for Mrs. Manning to reach the bell cord from the wheel chair, it wasn't possible for her to have sat where she did and drop the dictionary, and arranged for Theron to ring the bell after Gil had time to escape up the back stairs to his room, on the floor beneath the hurricane lamp! And the dictionary had the page turned down at the definition of the word 'beaver'."

ATTENTION! ALL HOME CANNERS!

If we all pitch in, 1944 will see the greatest food production in our history.

But that will require your help.

It's up to you to: 1, grow every ounce of food you possibly can; 2, use all the food you grow; 3, can your food by the proper and safe methods.

Every ounce of home-canned food is urgently needed. Your Government begs you not only to match what you did last year but, if possible, to better your 1943 record.

Put up fruits and tomatoes by the boiling-water bath method—a safe and satisfactory method for these foods.

But before you begin your 1944 canning of all other vegetables, Good Housekeeping wants to tell you how to avoid a danger that may occur in home-canned food—a danger recognized by many authorities, including the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

That danger is botulinus food poisoning!

Botulinus poisoning comes from bacteria that live in the soil and cling to vegetables. It is rare—but it isn't confined to just a few parts of the country, as some people think.

Botulinus germs may be on the food you can. They must be destroyed. Whenever these bacteria are present in the food and are not destroyed during the canning process, they gradually produce a toxin which is poisonous.

It takes hotter-than-boiling heat to kill botulinus germs. Neither hot-water bath nor open-kettle canning provides enough heat to destroy them. That is why we advise: the only safe way to can low-acid vegetables—which means all vegetables except tomatoes—is by the correct use of a pressure cooker!

If you don't already own a pressure cooker, you'll be glad to know that the Government is allowing the manufacture of 400,000 new cookers for sale this summer, without priorities.

If you can't buy a pressure cooker, borrow your neighbor's... or perhaps you'll find one available through a community canning group. If not, form your own community group, and buy one. To be safe, don't can low-acid vegetables any other way.

We take this opportunity to issue two further warnings: 1. Oven canning is dangerous. It has caused many serious accidents to persons and to property. Shun it! 2. All home-canned foods should be examined carefully when opened. If there is evidence of spoilage, the food should not be used. NEVER TASTE to discover spoilage.

By all means, put up every ounce of surplus food you possibly can. Our armed forces and the hungry nations of the earth need the benefits of our abundance.

Murder at CANDLEWOOD

by Gene Bunker Lumley

Chapter 25

"BUT, DIRK," Spring insisted, "You said Gil escaped up the back stairs to his room. The stairs don't go to his room! Moira's room is at the head of the back stairs! Gil's on the other side of that, and the only way to get there is down the little corridor off the main hall!"

Dirk nodded. "But, if you recall, Spring, the balcony outside your room extends across the back of the house to my room. Gil could go up the back stairs and stop out through the back hall window onto the balcony, and from there directly into his own room!"

Justen looked skeptical.

Dirk said firmly, "It can be done. I saw him do it!"

Something stirred again in Spring's memory. Dirk it was you I heard on the balcony! Just before the bell rang!"

Dirk looked at her. "I stumbled against your window once when I pressed back against the house wall when I saw Gil. I didn't want him to see me."

"What were you doing out there?" Justen asked.

Dirk half smiled. "No use, Justen! I wasn't going to kill anybody. I was keeping guard over Spring and trying to signal the coast guard for Moira. The house is visible from the Cove at that point."

"Moira admitted her side of the business to me the day after you and I found the Cove tunnel. She had been trying desperately for two nights to get into the secret of Gil's transmission of vital military information and stolen plans and drawing to the Axis. He was acting as a clearing house for their agents in this area. Moira was sure the candle shipment going out this week had something to do with it. She was trying to make contact with men in a rowboat from the coast-guard ship that night when we saw the lights in the Cove. I was to signal them tonight to wait, for Moira had discovered the secret late this afternoon. But she had found the secret messages."

Dirk stopped to light another cigarette. "Spring, if you recall, tonight when I left you in the shop, I found all those halved candles!"

"Yes!"

"The secret Moira discovered this afternoon was that Gil was sending the messages in a certain packing case, they being wrapped around the wick and coated over to look exactly like the others. Tonight we found the case and took it to the Cove, substituting another. Meanwhile Gil discovered that the message candles were gone, and in a panic thought they had been taken to the house for the day's supply, and that's why the candles were all missing tonight and the shop was strewn with halved ones! But they couldn't find the secret messages."

"You knew all this!" Justen exclaimed.

"I'd reached the point where I had to have help," Moira admitted.

"But why did you run away with Aunt Drusilla?"

"Because," Moira said fiercely, "When Mrs. Manning was found tonight, I knew the inevitable twist matters would take. Gil would have killed Drusilla, and left unmistakable evidence of suicide, everything indicating a twisted mind that had caused her to do away with her friends and family. After that Gil would have had complete run of Candlewood to himself."

Justen jumped up, starting all of them. "Where's that fellow Theron?"

Dirk put out his hand calmly. "He's taken care of. When I knew that Moira had escaped with Drusilla and I left Spring here, I circled back toward your place and caught Theron unaware on the trail. It didn't take too long to truss him up. Then I came back to the shop, just as Moira called for help, and—well, that's it."

HOURS later, when the Coast Guard had come and the candle messages were safe in government hands, and Gil and Theron had been taken to their inevitable fate, Spring took beside Dirk at the Cove and watched the second Coast Guard motorboat recede. The other vessel had removed the two bodies. Moira was reporting to Washington for a new assignment. Justen was enlisting tomorrow. And Aunt Drusilla was going back to Illinois with Spring to the farm.

As the Coast Guard boat turned the bend in the river, Candlewood was left alone in the hills, nudged like a grim and forsaken creature under the black storm clouds that still walled high above the line of trees that crouched over the house itself. Spring and Dirk faced expectantly out to sea.

"We have one week left together, Spring," Dirk reminded.

"We'll make up for all of this. We'll be married at the chapel back home."

"I never did show you the cardinal in the poplar," she whispered, against his shoulder. "And the rabbit hole in the drive!"

News About Our Men and Women in Armed Forces

Tiona Soldier Lost In Action Popular Here

Brief mention was made in Friday's Times-Mirror that Mr. and Mrs. Willard Dunn, of Tionesta, have received word from the War Department informing them their son, Pfc. Willard Earl Dunn, had been killed in action in France June 6. No details were given in the brief message but a letter is expected to follow soon.

Pfc. Dunn was born in Sheffield, Ohio, 27, 1919, attending public school there until his parents moved to Tiona and he attended Warren High School for two years before enlisting in the army July 31, 1939.

He was sent to Panama and was stationed there until October 27, 1941, when he returned to the United States for further training. He sailed for England in June of 1942 and was with the invasion forces in both Africa and Sicily.

He was then returned to England and stationed there until the invasion of Normandy. He belonged to the famous First Division. Young Dunn was well liked around his home community and in Sheffield, where he was a member of the Methodist church.

Besides his parents, he leaves two brothers, Jack, of Warren, and Robert, of Camp Carson, Colo.; three sisters, Audrey, Annabelle and Etta Mae, at home; also his grandmother, Mrs. Nettie Jobson, of Buffalo, N. Y.

William M. Boreman, former civilian flying instructor from 110 Terrace street, this city, has arrived at Randolph Field, Texas, for technical training under veteran AAF training command instructors of Central Instructors School. Upon completion of the course he will become a flying officer of the AAF Air Transport Command.

Pfc. Carl D. Peterson, son of Mrs. E. Peterson, of Kinzua, was graduated last week from the AAF flexible gunnery school at Laredo Army Air Field in Texas, receiving, along with his diploma, his aerial gunner's silver wings and a promotion in grade.

Pvt. William Charles Ebers, 405½ Fourth avenue, and Anthony Frank Cerando, 414 Laurel street, are reported among new arrivals for heavy weapon training at Camp Wolters, Texas.

Cpl. Roger B. Williamson, son of Mrs. Pearl McLean, 101 Russell street, has been graduated from the AAF training Command's flexible gunnery school at Buckingham, Field near Fort Myers, Fla. He entered the army ten months ago, having been an aircraft mechanic for Locomotive Airways at Williamsport. He also completed the aviation mechanics' school course at Goldsboro, N. C.

Sgt. John E. Wyckoff, home on furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wyckoff of Weldbank, returned to Wright Field Friday and will report soon to gunnery school at Harlingen, Texas.

Friends here have had word that Apprentice Seaman F. W. Camp, former Sheffieldite employed here by Sylvania Products, is receiving his basic training at Camp Peary, Va.

Lt. and Mrs. Willis Lundahl are here on leave with their families while en route from Serbing, Fla., to Lincoln, Neb., where the former will start his training with B-29 Super-Fortresses.

Word has been received from Cpl. Wilbert C. Gladd, son of Mrs. Hulda Gladd, 13 Monroe street, that he has arrived safely in New Guinea. A special dispatch received from the overseas Air Service Command headquarters reports that another son, Sgt. Chas. L. Gladd, has completed his course at a control depot and is ready for assignment to his next station. Before entering the army, Sgt. Gladd was employed as a machine operator at the Penn Furnace and Iron plant.

Word has been received that Lewis Sanden, 622 Beech street, who left two weeks ago, has been assigned to Sampson, N. Y. naval training station for initial instruction. His brother, Pvt. John Sanden, who has been in England, is now with the invasion forces in France and another brother, Pvt. Clayton Sanden, is in Italy.

Mrs. Walter Stanton has received word from her son, Gordon "Sport" Stanton, seaman second class, of his arrival at the naval receiving barracks at Sausalito, Calif., having been recently graduated from gunner's mate school in Newport, R. I. Another son, Lyle, also seaman second class, is based in Portsmouth, Va., with amphibious forces and was home over the weekend.

Pvt. Kenneth Lindell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Lindell of Lander, arrived home from Detroit, Mich., to spend a 15-day furlough with his parents. On returning to duty, Pvt. Lindell will report to Lincoln, Neb.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Green, 1811 Pennsylvania avenue, east, have received word that their son, Virgil, of the U. S. Marines, has arrived safely overseas.

T/Sgt. Tommy Croft, of the Royal Canadian Engineers, whose home is at Georgian Bay, Owen Sound, Canada, is spending a short visit with his uncle, Dr. S. J. Wallace, Hickory street. He recently returned from London where he has been located for about two years.

Wendell Hamlin, petty officer third class at the naval air station at Jacksonville, Fla., is here on 15-day leave with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Martin Hamlin, before they leave for their new home in San Jose, Calif., and he reports July 22 for a new assignment at Norfolk, Va.

Ice Cream To Be Served At Party Friday

Mrs. Walter Mathyer, chairman of the Community P.T.A. Council's ice cream social for the benefit of its summer community recreation program, has asked that if possible tickets should be purchased by Wednesday. It is important that the committee have an estimate to make arrangements for the supply of ice cream on Friday evening.

Two thousand tickets have been printed and are in the hands of sub-chairmen in the different sections of the borough, North Warren, and Pleasant township. Tickets may also be secured at the Y. W. C. A., the Y. M. C. A., Cozy Corner, Candyland, the United Cigar Store, and Harvey and Carney's.

One hundred and sixty cakes are being solicited by the committee. One club, the Pre-School Mothers' Club, headed by Mrs. Walter Pearson, reported on Friday that it would be responsible for 19. Anyone willing to help may call Mrs. Walter Mathyer, Phone 1439R.

Help from boys in the community will also be needed tonight and tomorrow at 7 o'clock on the Beaty Court. Jim Farrell and his committee have applied the cement filler and will start tonight to coat the court with two applications of wax for the outside dancing.

This is the most ambitious enterprise which has been sponsored by the Community P.T.A. Council and widespread cooperation will be needed if the summer recreation program is successful.

Is Awarded Bronze Star

Martha James Bundas, 1012 Fourth avenue, has received word that her husband, Pvt. John J. Bundas, was awarded the Bronze Star decoration for heroic achievement in action on May 14, 1944 in Italy.

When informed by a returning member of a squad, which had been caught by enemy artillery fire, that the squad leader had been wounded, Pvt. Bundas proceeded under heavy fire over exposed terrain to render first aid and evacuate him to safety.

The citation accompanying the decoration reads: "His disregard for his own personal safety to aid the wounded soldier reflects credit upon himself and the military service."

Pvt. Bundas entered military service from Warren.

BROTHERS MEET ON BATTLEFIELD

Mrs. Edward McGrath, of Sheffield, has received word from her husband, Capt. Edward McGrath, that he had the pleasure of an accidental meeting with his brother, 1st Lt. Maurice McGrath, somewhere on the battlefields of France, and learned their outfits were fighting only five miles apart.

Capt. McGrath is a service company commander in the 29th Division, which reportedly suffered the heaviest casualties on D-Day. His regiment has already received a presidential citation for meritorious action in the initial assault. He was an employee of the United Refining Company before he was called into active duty in August, 1941. He has been stationed in England for the past year.

IN NAVY HOSPITAL

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Salapek have had a letter from their son, Joseph J. Salapek, seaman second class, that he is confined to the U. S. Naval Hospital, Ward 45, at Chelsea, Mass., and would like to hear from his friends.

Chapter 1

THERE was an air of expectancy about the airport. In a few minutes the plane from the West Coast would arrive. Already it could be seen spreading its wings over Manhattan, its outlines clearly discernible against the blue sky.

As it drew nearer two newspaper cameramen edged their way through the chattering groups, showed their credentials, and were allowed to pass through the gates onto the landing field. With characteristic nonchalance they set up their cameras, lit cigarettes, and stood waiting.

Presently the plane adjusted itself on the beam and began to descend. As it did so, the little groups of watchers—mainly women—merged together and pressed forward toward the gates. They could not go any farther. They could not go out on the field as the cameramen had. But each eager face seemed to say, "I'm expecting someone important too. Someone very important—to me!"

Standing apart from the crowd, her face pressed against the thick glass that separated the ramp from the landing field, was a young girl. Her eyes were blue—dark blue, almost the color of the suit she was wearing. Her face was quite pale, for she wore no makeup, and her shoulder-length brown curls followed no prescribed style. Her prettiness was more a matter of youth and eager wistfulness than perfection of feature.

Beside her stood a woman whose blue eyes and brown hair, now touched with gray, identified her as the girl's mother. They were alike, and yet not alike, for the woman's furtive, nervous manner was in sharp contrast to the girl's quiet poise. It was obvious that they too were expecting someone important. But they were not smiling. Suddenly the girl turned.

"Mother," she said hesitantly, "I was wondering about Angel. She's been gone three years, and everything's changed a lot. I'm wondering if she's changed too. I—she stopped, unable to put her thoughts into words, reluctant to say, "I hope so—oh, I hope so!"

A shadow crossed the woman's face, and there was something not far from panic in her voice when she confessed, "I—I was wondering about that too, Louise."

"She's worried," thought Louise. "She dreads for Angel to know how poor we are now. She hates for her to see the cheap railroad flat and the shabby old furniture. She's afraid Angel won't be able to take it. Poor Mother!"

Louise looked at her mother, her blue eyes filled with compassion. But the shadow was gone now and she was saying, a little nervously:

"I—I only hope she hasn't changed—poor Angel. She was always so lovely, so gay. Always the center of attention. Always—" Her voice broke, leaving the sentence in mid air. Martha Malone seldom finished a sentence nowadays. Since the loss of her business and the discouraging round of job-hunting that had followed, she seemed to have lost most of her spirit.

LOUISE nodded. Yes, Angel was lovely and gay and popular. There wasn't a girl in Forest Hills who hadn't envied her. Or a boy who, at one time, or another, hadn't made violent love to her. But the sister Louise remembered could be hard and cruelly selfish, too. It wasn't by virtue of beauty alone that Angel had gotten the best of everything, from the prettiest clothes to the last piece of pie.

There wasn't a girl who hadn't envied her—or a boy who, at one time or another, hadn't made love to her.

"But that was three years ago," Louise reminded herself resolutely. "Of course she's changed, now. A girl can't go through what Angel has without changing a lot. Mother's having her worries for nothing. I wish I could tell her so."

"Even as a baby Angel was beautiful," Martha was saying now, her anxious eyes taking on a dreamy expression.

Martha's life story was one of sacrifice and service for her children. If anyone had accused her of favoritism for Angel she would have denied it vehemently. It was just that Angel had been born with an angelic face and a passion for attention.

More over, Angel had grown up at a time when Martha's beauty shop was doing a flourishing business, and had been given every advantage. Louise, being four years younger, had waited. It wasn't Martha's fault that her business failed when Louise was just out of high school. Or that the bright plans she had made for Bobby, her seventeen-year-old son, would never be realized.

"Of course I'm not saying you weren't pretty, too, Louise," she said hastily. "There were times when you were even prettier than Angel. And you did have the most wonderful disposition."

She reached out and touched an errant curl that had fallen across Louise's cheek, tucked it carefully back in place. "I love your hair this way, dear. You should wear it down all the time. It makes you look quite glamorous. I can't understand why you go in for those old-maidish hair-dos."

Louise grinned. "Maybe I'd rather be safe than glamorous," she teased. "When you're carrying the torch for a riveter—and that's a machine, Mother, not a man—you can't have the works getting into your hair. The supervisors won't stand for it. If you don't mind, darling, I'll stick to the old-maidish hair-dos and hang on to my job—and my head."

Martha frowned and turned away. She didn't like to think of Louise having to operate a riveter in a defense plant. But she was grateful for one thing: she had managed to maneuver the conversation away from Angel, and the fear that was clutching at her heart.

IMPATIENTLY, Louise turned back to look at the plane. It had taxied to a stop now. In a moment the passengers would be coming out. Among them would be Angel, the sister Louise and her mother had not seen for three years. Angel, who had left school two years ago to elope with young Jimmie Saunders, an army aviator whom the family had never seen. Angel, who had broken a two-year silence to write them that Jimmie had been reported missing in action, and that she was coming home with Baby Jeanne. She had said in her letter that she knew Jimmie was dead; that, while there had been no official confirmation from the War Department to that effect, her feelings and instincts could tell her nothing else.

The letter had arrived early this morning, forwarded from the Forest Hills address. There had been no way of preparing Angel for the shock that awaited her; no way of telling her that Martha's business had failed. No chance to tell her that they'd given up the pretty cottage in Forest Hills to take a cheap railroad flat in Brooklyn. There had been no way to let her know that Louise had given up her studies at Columbia and was working the swing shift in a Brooklyn defense plant; that Martha herself had been compelled to take a menial job at a ridiculously low salary because of her age.

Forgers Compelled to Go Ten Innings To Win From Erie Brabenders By 6 to 5 Score

Erie Brabenders lived up to all that was said about them when they forced the Forgers to go all out in a ten-inning game for a 6 to 5 victory at Wilder Field before a good crowd Sunday.

Hines and Blowers pitched smart and brilliant ball, but Hines was the more unfortunate as he had five errors behind him which produced most of the visitors' runs. The errors on the part of the Forge, plus the speed and head-up ball that the visitors played put Forge behind the eight ball and came nearly costing them their first defeat of the season.

The visitors possessed a young fast team with good fielding and some throws from the outfield and infield that kept the Forge in hot water all afternoon.

Forge opened the scoring in the first, Creola singled, Massa sacrificed him to second, Morrison tripled scoring Creola and Morrison came home on a squeeze by Rosequist.

Erie scored in the fourth, Torelli was safe on Solock's error, who had a bad day, incidentally, Torelli stole second and went to third on Rosequist's error, scoring on a fly ball to right field.

Forge was checked by Blowers, and Erie in the fifth pushed over two runs. Torelli singled, Brabender was safe on an error by Natile. A passed ball and fly to the outfield helped shove them across. Forge scored three in the sixth when J. Massa and Morrison singled, and Natile, who is hitting the ball hard and playing his usual fine game, sent a tremendous drive into deep left field for a home run, giving Forge a 5-3 lead, which looked like the end of the scoring for the day, but Erie waited until the last of the ninth, Torelli singled, went to second on an out, Blowers singled and went to second, with Torelli going to third, Ragozzi came through with a hit and both runners scored, knotting the game at 5 each.

Forge failed to score in the last of the ninth and held the visitors scoreless in the first of the tenth. The local went in the last of the tenth with Morrison driving a third hit of the day into the trees for a ground rule double, Rosequist and Gagliardi went down, and Natile was given a base on balls. McKinney singled to short left for the winning run of the day and the 14th straight victory of the season for the Forge.

The largest crowd of the season saw the game that was filled with thrills throughout.

This was the first of a number of good teams that will be seen at Wilder Field in the next few weeks. Next Sunday it will be Honus Wagner's All-Stars with the great Flying Dutchman appearing in person. July 23rd finds Dormont, one of the best semi-pro teams in the Pittsburgh district as the attraction. Thursday, July 20 Forge play Corry at the State Hospital at six o'clock.

Walters Looms as Starting Pitcher For the Nationals In All-Star Game Tuesday

By JACK HAND
Pittsburgh, July 10.—(P)—Bucky Walters of Cincinnati looms as the probable National League starting pitcher in the 12th annual All-Star game tomorrow night at Forbes Field with Marse Joe McCarthy of the American League expected to choose between Hank Borowy of the New York Yankees and Tex Hughson of the Boston Red Sox.

Pending definite announcement from Skipper Billy Southworth of the Nationals and McCarthy, baseball men figured today the two pitchers would lead with the ace right-handers. Walters has a 14-3 win record for the Reds, Borowy has won 11 and dropped 4 and Hughson boasts a fancy 13-3 mark.

Losing Streak of Thirteen Straight Puts Durocher On Spot as Manager of Dodgers

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers seems to be on the spot again. His position, shaky the past few years, has been made more precarious than ever by the current losing streak of the Dodgers, which reached 13 officially yesterday.

Few managers have survived for long such a losing streak, especially in Flatbush where they take their baseball seriously. A nine-game losing streak, which was prolonged to 13, put the skids under Jimmy Wilson of the Chicago Cubs at the start of the season.

Just a year ago today, Durocher's job was jeopardized by a clubhouse rebellion. Several players objected to his handling of a flareup that involved Bobo Newsom and Arky Vaughan. Leo handled that obstacle, with the backing of President Branch Rickey. During the winter, Rickey signed the stormy petrel to a contract which can be terminated at five minutes notice.

Brooklyn's 13th successive loss, which matched the season's loss set by the Cubs, was handed to them by the Pittsburgh Pirates. The 10-1 opener of a double (Turn to Page Ten)

Magic Putter Is Big Help To M'Spadden

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Minneapolis, Minn., July 10.—Being something of a putting sensation is fairly new for Jug McSpadden, who dropped from the winter golf tour three years ago because he couldn't putt.

At that time, the Philadelphia pro became affectionately known among his colleagues as "Jerks" McSpadden. He got the shakes when he got a putter in his hand. "Hours of practice finally snapped me out of it," said Jug, "and then, too, I patched up a putter with an extra heavy club head—and the added weight seemed to help my touch."

Mostly because of his magic putter, McSpadden has cornered the title-winning market this season—taking five tournaments outright and teaming with Byron Nelson, his rival for the 1944 champion of champions honors, to win the Golden Valley Four-Ball Invitational Championship yesterday.

The Nelson-McSpadden combine finished the 126-hole, match play marathon with a plus of 13 count in the scoring system—a three point edge over the second place team of Bill Kaiser-Hamilton. The twin cities twosome of Les Bolstad and Joe Coria finished a surprising third, followed in order by Jimmy Hines-Willie Goggin, Sam Byrd—Johnny Revolta, Pvt. Chick Harbert-Mike Turnesa, Harry Cooper-Ellsworth Vines and Lieut. Ben Hogan-Toney Penna.

Only a Few Play Matches

Only a few of the 22 golfers in the Conevango Valley Country Club golf championship play took to the fairways over the weekend, but only five matches finished, but the next three days will find most of the remainder playing off their scheduled affairs.

In the first flight play Bill Rice defeated Bob Johnson 2-1 in the tightest match in the competitive select group Saturday afternoon.

The second flight found Nat Drake dropping Bill Simonsen to a 8-7 count. Ray Reed, Jr., taking the long end of a 7-6 score from Ardell Saylor, Devere Kirberger dishing up a 6-5 win over Emmmons Jones and Todd Siggins losing to Henry Carpenter 1-up after leading by a wide margin throughout the first 11 holes.

Is it ever wise to BORROW?

NO one should borrow unnecessarily, but there are times when a loan is the best solution to a money problem. Thousands of letters in our files tell of the many worth-while things made possible by a Personal loan. If you need extra cash, perhaps a Personal loan would be to your advantage, too.

Personal makes loans promptly, and privately, without involving outsiders. Sensible monthly payments are arranged and the cost is surprisingly low. For example: $30 for 2 weeks costs less than 53¢. Getting a loan at Personal is as simple as opening a charge account. Come in, phone or write us today.

Honus Wagner to Bring His Team to Wilder Field Sunday

Baseball fans of Warren county and the surrounding territory will welcome the announcement, made today by Manager Nick Creola, that definite arrangements have been completed for bringing Honus Wagner's All-Stars, of Pittsburgh, to Wilder Field at Irvine next Sunday afternoon to oppose the unbeaten National Forge and Ordinance nine.

Appearing with the Smoky City nine will be Honus Wagner himself, who needs no introduction to the fans of this vicinity, as well as a galaxy of former minor and major league stars.

Wagner, who last appeared in Warren a few seasons ago with the Pittsburgh Pirates, has a wide personal following here, including many who recall him as an active participant in the big league wars and as one of the greatest, if not the greatest, of all the diamond celebrities.

Although the complete list of Wagner's players for the game at Irvine Sunday has not been announced, it is expected that the official list will be received in time for tomorrow's Times-Mirror.

Advance sale of tickets for the attraction was started today by members of the Forge ball club. Tickets also have been placed on sale in various business places in Warren, Youngsville and Clarendon.

PULLED FROM RIVER

A woman who resides near the voting place at Starbuck, waded into the river in that vicinity early this afternoon. She was pulled out by Marshall Moran, who witnessed the incident. In the meantime the rescuer was summoned from the fire department and she was removed to her home. The woman is said to be mentally deficient and is alleged to have been involved in similar incidents in the past, which have been investigated by the sheriff's department.

Medical Student Proves Bad Medicine for Nazis; He's Top U. S. Air Ace Now

By GEORGE SWETNAM
NEA Correspondent

Oil City, July 10.—Lt. Col. Francis S. Gabreski, of Oil City, had planned a quiet career as a physician before the war made him bad medicine for the Nazis.

Today he's the flyer who tops all other American aces with 28 planes shot down in aerial combat.

Quiet and soft-spoken, he worked in his father's grocery store after school and on vacation. He always showed an interest in mechanics, however, and worshipped airplanes from afar.

When the Air Cadet program gave him the chance, he left his premedical work at Notre Dame and enlisted in the Air Corps.

His parents, proud of their elder son Thaddeus, who had just completed his work at Notre Dame and Jefferson Medical College and begun practice in Oil City, objected at first. Francis convinced them that he would have to go into the Army soon anyway, and won their consent.

He was the first member of his family to enter service before the beginning of the war. Now all the Gabreski children are in service, except his older sister Lottie (who stays at home to help her father in the store).

Dr. Gabreski donned a uniform soon after Pearl Harbor, and is now an Army physician in India with the rank of Major. His youngest brother Max, who reached his eighteenth birthday this year, is in Navy boot camp at Sampson, N. Y. The other sister, Bernice, has joined the Nurse Cadet Corps and is in training at an Erie hospital.

Colonel Gabreski is the son of Polish immigrant parents who came to this country seeking work. His father, Stanley, 58, came to America in 1909 and secured a job as laborer for the Pennsylvania Railroad. Two years later, his mother, who had not known her future husband in the old country, left Poland with a girl friend and found employment here doing housework. The Gabreskis were married in 1912 in the Church of the Assumption, the Polish Catholic church in Oil City to which they and their children still belong.

Gabreski continued as a railroad worker until about the time of the first World War, when he became a machinist in an Oil City shop, continuing in that work until he decided to launch his feed and food store in 1927. Since that time the store has absorbed most of the time and interest of the family. Francis lived the normal life of an American boy as he grew up, working for his father and taking whatever opportunity offered to slip over to the garage near the store and watch and talk to the mechanics.

Things began to happen fast after he left Notre Dame in 1940. He went to Parks Air College, East St. Louis, Ill., then to Maxwell Field, Ala. After receiving his commission, he was sent to Hickam Field, Hawaii, only a short time before the Pearl Harbor attack.

What happened on that grim day, not even his parents have ever been able to get him to tell. The grudging words, "I was in the air," are all the story he ever told on his one brief visit home in July, 1941.

After his flying trip to Oil City, Colonel Gabreski went to England, where he joined the Polish Squadron and won the Polish Cross of Valor, for diving in to shoot down a Nazi plane about to knock down the craft of his commander.

He rejoined the American Air Force and the world has watched his rise to become top American ace, holding the Distinguished Service Cross, Distinguished Flying Cross and other decorations. But there is another side to his life, to which he looks forward after the war. In Hawaii he met Kay Cochran, a 17-year-old Grand Rapids, Mich., girl who was staying with her uncle, Col. C. B. Bruce, and who decided she would like to be the wife of a Pennsylvania physician. They had become engaged before he left the Islands, and now she and Mrs. Bruce are waiting in a little Wisconsin town for the two Colonels to come home from the war.

Truck Smacks Two Cars—Loss Quite Heavy

Police Saturday investigated an automobile crash on Lexington avenue in which two passenger cars were badly damaged and a Ford truck suffered a badly smashed radiator, etc. The Ford truck was engaged in closing the ventilator while driving. In some way his attention was distracted and the truck plowed into the parked car. This machine was shoved into another and the damage done to the two cars is estimated at $320. The cars damaged were owned by Robert D. Hulings, 744 Amherst street, Buffalo, N. Y. The one it was forced into was owned by H. C. Hulings, 20 Lexington avenue. The New York state car was damaged to the extent of $300 and the Warren owned car suffered $20 damage. The truck of Mr. Landis was covered by insurance.

post-war opportunities

The question of post-war jobs—especially for returning veterans—is a big one and a live one. It will get more so as the war comes nearer its end.

Our own job security plan for Esso Marketers' employees now in uniform went into operation the day after Pearl Harbor. It has worked so well for so long that we want to pass our experience along.

In general, it is based on the idea that we are saving his place for our fighting man while he's away, whether he volunteered, was drafted, or was called up as a reservist. Chief features of the plan are these...

1. Each employee who has been with us a year or longer is given two months' salary as he enters the armed forces.

2. His dependents receive monthly payments from the company while he is away—up to half of his former company pay.

3. Each employee has been assured by letter from our company president that his old job—or another as good or better—will be waiting for him. Experience gained in the Armed Forces may result in his immediate advancement.

4. His rights in company retirement and benefit plans are protected while he is away.

DETAILS of the plan have been put into a booklet which we shall be glad to send you.*

Soon we will announce in this newspaper further plans for making some good new jobs in the oil business after the war.

As we see it today, next to winning the war itself, nothing is more important than the matter of post-war jobs.

and two National chuckers, Jim Tobin and Al Javery of the Braves, were practically eliminated from consideration by working Sunday games. It is not likely that any of the quintet will be used with only one day's rest in relief emergency.

Unless Southworth calls in the Phils' Ken Raffensberger, the Americans will see all right-handed hurling. With that in mind, players trekked into town today following Sunday doubleheaders as club owners and executives held separate major league meetings to discuss additional night ball, continuation of the office of high commissioner held by K. M. Landis, whose term expires in 1946, and a change in the system of acquiring players. The Cards, Browns, White Sox, Phils and A's are understood to be asking for more "owl" play.

header. They almost tied the longest losing streak in the history of the club when they trailed 9-7 in the nightcap, called at the end of eight inning by Pennsylvania's 6:50 curfew law. The game will be completed later.

After losing seven out of nine to Detroit, the New York Yankees made an about face and swept a war relief double header from the Tigers 4-3 and 8-2 before 33,482, who paid $38,102.50. The double victory moved the Yankees to within a game of the second place Boston Red Sox.

The League leading St. Louis Browns and the Washington Senators exchanged shutouts. The Browns, behind Newman Shirley's two-hit pitching, won the first, 10-0, and the Senators, with Dutch Leonard pitching five-hit ball, took the second, 5-0.

The Red Sox and Cleveland split their double header, the Indians winning the opener, 8-2 and the Red Sox the second, 4-2. Bobby Doerr of the Red Sox became the first American league batter to make 100 hits. Pat Seerey of the Indians and Bob Johnson of the Sox each hit his eighth homer of the year.

Frank Hayes batted his 10th homer as the Chicago White Sox and the Philadelphia Athletics divided their twin-bill, the White Sox taking the opener, 4-3, for Bill Dietrich's 10th victory, and the A's annexing the finale, 8-2.

The St. Louis Cardinals handed the Boston Braves a double blanking, with Mort Cooper winning his 10th game in the opener, 1-0, as Stan Musial and brother Walker Cooper combined to score the lone run off Jim Tobin. Harry Brecheen gained his seventh win in the nightcap, 9-0.

The Chicago Cubs climbed out of the cellar as they defeated the New York Giants twice, 6-2 and 1-0. Claude Passeau shaded Bill Voiselle in the second game as Andy Parko singled with the bases loaded in the sixth inning.

The Cincinnati Reds moved to within five percentage points of second place with a double victory over Philadelphia 9-5 and 7-5.

Woody Williams made six hits for the Reds.

MONTGOMERY FORCES SWEEP THROUGH RUINS OF CAEN IN DIRECTION OF RIVER ORNE

On Western End of Line Americans Match Offensive of Of Tommies With Drive That Makes Progress in All Sectors

NORMANDY FRONT IN "A STATE OF STRAIN"

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, July 10—(P)—Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British Second Army, starting to swing shut the door on Germans still standing across the Orne river in the southern suburbs of captured Caen, seized today a chain of Normandy towns and strongpoints guarding the enemy's imperiled flank.

Striking in typical hard-smitting Montgomery style, the British plunged eastward from their Ordon bridgehead behind the embattled Germans in the suburb of Faubourg de Vaucelles, and captured Bretteville-sur-Ordon, a mile southwest of Caen.

The new attack, flung with thunderous artillery barrage at 5 a. m., same just 15 hours after British and Canadian forces had taken Caen, 120 miles from Paris, and opened the way to a favorable flat battleground on the plain of Caen south of the port to Falaise.

On the western end of the line American forces matched the British offensive with a drive that made progress in all sectors following the capture of La Haye Du Puits, bitterly defended German stronghold.

Field dispatches assaying the extent of the British-Canadian victory at Caen said the German 12th S. S. Panzer division and a French division had been badly mauled in trying to hold the town. The 12th panzers were reported whittled to 45 per cent of their normal strength, a loss of perhaps 5,500 men.

The town of Caen was so badly battered the British had to bring up bulldozers to push the rubble aside because vehicles could not get within 500 yards of the river. The Germans have suffered a severe reverse, the supreme command asserted in commenting on the capture of Caen, stubborn bastion on the eastern wing of the bridgehead front, but hastened to add:

"They have not yet suffered a major defeat in the field." The Germans' whole Normandy front was described as in "a state of strain" today.

Etterville, next in the chain and three miles southwest of the city; Maltot, four miles southwest, and hill 112, a bit farther southwest, all fell in quick succession in plunges which took the British within a mile of the Orne river.

Montgomery's bludgeon, more than three miles broad, was matched by a British bridgehead across the Orne to the north and east of Caen which also threatened the last-ditch Germans with a squeeze offensive.

Defeat on the Transportation Front Confronting Germany

Madrid, July 10—(P)—Far behind the tumult and destruction on the great battlefronts of Normandy, Russia and Italy, the Germans are struggling desperately to stave off defeat on the transportation front—on which the defense of all the others depends.

The whole picture suggests the possibility the battle for Europe may be decided en route to the front—an Armageddon on wheels. The desperate situation on this far-flung front which links production areas with the armies is disclosed in German newspapers reaching Spain.

They appeal to the German people to understand the complete stoppage of railway traffic in certain areas, and not to lose patience. There are numerous articles glorifying railwaymen and urging them to still greater effort "under conditions of personal danger similar to the fighting front."

In addition there are reports of campaigns to divert every possible self-propelled or horse-drawn vehicle to supplement the dwindling capacity of the bomb-battered and sabotage ridden railway network.

DeGaulle Will Move Capital Into France

Washington, July 10—(P)—General Charles De Gaulle, reporting his conversations with President Roosevelt, had attained the "principal object" of creating a better understanding, announced today he would move his capital from Algiers to liberated French territory as soon as possible.

"I had very broad and frank conversations with President Roosevelt," De Gaulle told a press conference, adding that he was taking away with him "the best possible impression from my stay in the capital of the United States."

De Gaulle said President Roosevelt spoke to him of American responsibilities for the war and for the peace "with a breadth of view, a knowledge of the problems, and an idealism which particularly impressed me."

The general discussed his meeting with Mr. Roosevelt and other American officials just before taking a plane for New York. He spoke in French after an initial "good morning, ladies and gentlemen" in English.

First he read a statement expressing his satisfaction with the talks with the president. Secretary of State Hull and other officials. Then he answered questions freely.

TRAINS ARE ATTACKED

By GLADWIN HILL
London, July 10—(P)—Large forces of Allied bombers and fighters streamed across the English channel in improving weather today in support of the British and American troops advancing on the Normandy battlefield.

During the night RAF mosquito and Boston bombers ranged deep into France and attacked 18 trains and railroads leading to the German front, highway convoys and Seine river bridges.

The Paris radio said Allied planes bombed northeast Paris this morning.

Mosquitoes bombed a synthetic oil plant at Boer last night. Lancasters with fighter cover attacked an unidentified military objective in northern France. Other RAF planes laid mines in enemy waters and not an aircraft was lost in the night operations.

German reinforcements struggling westward across the Seine near the coast just east of Le Havre on ferries and pontoon bridges were bombed and strafed over a 30-mile stretch between Quillebeur and Duclair.

The German radio said single Allied raiders were over northwest Germany early this morning.

German positions only 50 yards ahead of Canadian troops were attacked by Typhoons that swooped in no more than 100 feet over the soldiers' heads.

The Allied strategic air campaign against the German war effort was carried forward yesterday by about 1,000 U. S. heavy bombers which flew in from the west and south escorted by a like number of fighters while many formations of other types continued direct tactical support of the Normandy beachhead.

Conquest of Saipan Clears Way For Direct Strikes To Vitals of Japanese Empire

By J. B. KRUEGER
Associated Press War Editor

United States forces have conquered Saipan, clearing the way for direct strikes from the western Pacific into the vitals of Japan's empire.

The capital island of the Marianas fell Saturday after 25 days of the bloodiest, costliest fighting in all of Adm. Chester W. Nimitz' drive across the Pacific from Pearl Harbor.

Saipan is 1,450 miles south of Tokyo and 1,640 miles east of Manila. The leap from the Marshall Islands to Saipan advanced the Americans 1,150 miles westward.

Now for the first time land-based bombers are in position to raid Manila and the Japanese homeland from the Pacific.

Japan breathed hard from other body blows suffered in its many-front Pacific war. Noemfoor island, off northwest New Guinea and within 800 miles of the southern Philippines, was in Gen. Douglas MacArthur's hands. All resistance there ended a day ahead of Saipan's collapse, adding another nest of airfields for Allied use.

Chinese troops tightened a clamp on Japanese troops trying to remount their siege of strategic Hengyang in south-central China. In Burma organized enemy resistance collapsed at Uthru, Japanese base inside the northeast India border. The shattered army, failed in its attempt to paralyze Allied supply routes, was fighting furiously to escape annihilation at the hands of the British.

Probably 95 per cent—or 19,000—of the Japanese garrison perished in defending the island. Civilians surrendered by the hundreds. A stockade also held a crowd of unwounded Japanese soldiers, a rare spectacle in the Pacific war.

There remained a mop-up job and the island flanking Saipan, including Guam, Rota, Tinian and Pagan, have to be taken or neutralized.

U. S. casualties through June 28 were 1,474 dead and 8,278 wounded.

Soviets Tighten Up On Divorces

By EDDIE GILMORE
Moscow, July 10—(P)—The supreme Soviet has issued a sweeping decree to strengthen family life by making divorces more difficult to obtain and by granting increased financial aid for large families.

Causing a sensation throughout Russia, the decree made divorces as hard or harder to obtain in the Soviet Union than in some parts of the United States, and provided for payment ranging up to a lump sum of 5,000 rubles, or about $950, at birth of an 11th child, plus a monthly payment of 300 rubles, or $57.

In the past, if both a husband and wife wanted a divorce, they could obtain one within a few minutes upon application at a registration office.

Broadcast Says Defenders Are "Barricaded in Center of Town Fighting House to House"

APPROACHING KAUNAS

BULLETIN
London, July 10—(P)—The British press said tonight that the Russians had advanced to a point within 60 miles of East Prussia.

London, July 10—(AP)—The Red army, fighting less than 100 miles from East Prussia and on both sides of Wilno, has cut the rail line between Daugavpils (Dvinsk) and Kaunas, the pre-war capital of Lithuania, a German broadcast said today.

Northeast of Wilno, troops of the Baltic front, sweeping up more than 700 towns, captured Druja, little more than a mile from the Latvian border. Also seized was Braslav, southwest of Druja and only 25 miles from Daugavpils, Moscow announced.

Fighting for the second day in the streets of Wilno, the former Polish-ruled city which the Russians transferred to Lithuania in 1940, the Russians appeared to have that ancient center of Baltic civilization on the verge of capitulation, Moscow dispatches said.

The German broadcast said the Nazi defenders had "barricaded themselves in the center of the city. House after house was defended the most stubbornly and the Soviets are paying with the highest sanguinary losses for every meter of ground gained in the shattered town."

The Berlin commentator, Walter Plato, said the Russians had reached the Kaunas-Daugavpils road in the neighborhood of Otena where (Turn to Page Nine)

Soldier Vote Big Factor in Election

Harrisburg, July 10—(P)—A soldier vote registration of more than 510,000 in Pennsylvania presents leaders of both Republican and Democratic parties with a major question in calculating their chances of victory at the November presidential election.

With a Republican registration of 2,500,000 and a Democratic enrollment of 1,725,000 in the state, the party chiefs concede that such a big bloc of votes could be a big factor in the result but, they point out, the big question is how many of the service men and women will vote.

In 1942 when Governor Martin was elected with a vote of 1,367,373 against 1,149,897 for his Democratic opponent, Auditor General F. Clair Ross, only 10,592 soldier votes were recorded. The 1943 municipal election saw only 9,095 soldier votes and the figure was further reduced in the April primary this year.

Dates Announced for Tin Can And Waste Paper Collections

A stepped-up salvage effort all along the line is planned for the month of July, according to an announcement made this morning by W. T. Corbett, chairman of the Warren County Salvage Committee.

This all-out effort will crystallize around two important collections: 1. tin can collection on Wednesday, July 12th and 2. a paper collection on Wednesday, July 19th.

In the tin can collection it is hoped that Warren County will be able to fill another gondola car which holds approximately 20 gross tons or 300,000 cans. To date we have shipped 7 carloads.

In Warren borough the collection on Wednesday will be a curb-pick-up, as well as Glade and Pleasant townships.

Because of the shortage of trucks the collection in Sheffield, Clarendon, Tiona, Barnes and that area will be made on Thursday. The Youngsville collection will be on Wednesday along with Warren.

The following regional chairman will be in charge in their respective areas: Sheffield, Donald P. Wednesday morning, July 19th.

Showers In County Fail To Wet Warren

The arid spell that has caused gardens to wilt about town, lawns to turn yellow and the golf course at the Conewago Club to burn and scar. The mercury over the weekend stayed at a high degree and the humidity was such that much suffering from the heat was occasioned.

Need of rain in and about the city is great and farmers about the county are also complaining that the dryness is affecting crops. Berries in the woods are also drying and where large crops of wild berries were expected observers state that the dry hot weather has caused the berries in many instances to be so dry they are falling off the bushes.

Rain did fall in some sections of the county last night. One nice shower is reported from Chanders Valley where copious showers relieved the situation but Sugar Grove and Warren were passed by. At Big Bend another shower was reported and rain fell there for some time.

Last night about 11 o'clock a few drops of water fell in Warren but the clouds passed over and seemingly split one portion north and the other in a southerly direction. Yesterday afternoon it is reported that one heavy clou of thunder was heard.

Broadcast Schedule For Dem Convention

New York, July 10—(AP)—Broadcast schedules for the Democratic convention, as announced in advance by the network schedule for transmission from the Chicago stadium of two sessions each on July 19 and 20, with air time set for 1 and 10 p. m. If a third day is required, broadcasts will continue in accordance with session times.

The planned schedule. July 19—1:00 p. m. opening session, Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago, Sen. Scott Lucas of Illinois and Robert E. Hannegan, national chairman.

10 p. m. First night session, Gov. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, temporary chairman, in keynote address.

July 20—1:00 p. m. second day, address of permanent chairman, Sen. Samuel D. Jackson of Indiana, and platform report.

10 p. m. Night session, address of Helen Gahagan Douglas, nominating speeches and roll call of candidates.

NOTICE

Dr. R. F. Otterbein will be out of town from July 10th to August 1st. Office will remain open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. until July 15th. July 6-21

To Interview WAC Recruits Wednesday

Lt. Mary A. O'Connor, WAC recruiting officer stationed at Erie, will be in Warren at the Y. W. C. A., Wednesday July 12 between 11:00 a. m. and 5:00 p. m. to interview and classify applicants.

One of the most thrilling and interesting jobs available is in the control tower. In a room barred to all but its operating personnel a member of the Women's Army Corps calls a code number into a radio microphone and issues a crisp order to the control tower. On the concrete ramp a flying fortress that has been warming up its motors, taxis to the runway, executes a swift turn-about and thunders into the wind. Another bomber is on its way to help our men, fighting on the invasion shore.

No WACS are aboard but many WACS aided in getting that ship and its men off. There were many vital jobs that had to be done, such as typing the orders, the weather forecast to be prepared, the supplies to be issued, the motor and radio to be checked. Many jobs that a WAC can do.

There are 239 jobs open for WACS. The Women's Army Corps offers eligible women an opportunity to improve their skill or to learn new ones that will open to them profitable and interesting careers in the postwar world.

PAC PLANS SWIM

The PAC will sponsor a one-period swim from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m. Tuesday at the YMCA pool.

POURING CONCRETE

Work of pouring concrete on the pier under construction at the Glade Bridge was started today and special trucks are in the city for the purpose.

WILL MEET TONIGHT

The regular meeting of the City Council will be held this evening in the Borough Building. There are a number of minor matters up for consideration but the bulk of business will be routine.

BOYS SWIMMING

The old swimming hole Sunday was just about the most popular place for groups of boys. At the Glade bridge groups of boys were bathing throughout the day. The river is now shallow and the gravel bars are showing up out of the water.

MARINE TO SPEAK

Pfc. Mac Corah, back in this country from overseas duty and hospitalized in Seattle, Wash., will be guest speaker for the meeting of Lions Club at the YWCA activities building at noon on Tuesday. Other guests will be a group of members from the Tionesta Lions Club.

FARMERS SOLD WOOL

Farmers of this county and others in the vicinity attended a wool sale at Titusville on Friday last when 25 tons of wool were sold. H. R. McCullough, an expert on wool from State College judged the wool and set the price while E. G. Ifft, of Venango county kept records and did the weighing.

SUMMER STUDIES

Warren county has three persons listed in the nearly 700 men and women, majority of them public school teachers and administrators, enrolled for special summer course studies at Penn State College. Those representing this section are Warren J. Anna, Rogers Mills; Nellie E. Titus, Sheffield, and Alice A. Kelly, Torpedo.

HEARINGS WERE HELD

Hearings were held last week in the small court room at the court house by a representative to the Department of Revenue for automobile drivers who had been involved in accidents on the highway. Several appeared in response to summons and explained relative to the accidents in which they were involved. No decisions were made known.

IS TAKING PART

"Uncle" George Metzgar Will Be 100 Years Old July 15th

George W. Metzgar, at one time station master here for the Pennsylvania Railroad, will celebrate his 100th birthday anniversary Saturday, July 15, at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Johnson, 16 West 15th street, Tulsa, Okla.

Mr. Metzgar was born at York, July 15, 1844, and entered the service of the railroad company June 18, 1861, as locomotive fireman, advancing to engineer February 2, 1862. On May 20, 1868, he lost his right leg below the knee as the result of a railroad accident at Royston, and was promoted to the position of foreman of Warren enginehouse November 23, 1871. He incurred an injury March 17, 1897, which made it necessary to amputate his left leg below the knee. Following recovery from this accident he was made station master, from which position he retired August 1, 1914, under the company's pension rules.

Mr. Metzgar will doubtless receive the usual "shower" of greeting cards from his friends in Warren and vicinity.

LEG WAS BROKEN

Frank Sparito, 15, of 18 Hinkle street was struck by an automobile driven by Charles Canby, 105 Irvine street yesterday near the intersection of the Sheffield and Kinzua roads. The boy was walking along the berm on the highway facing traffic when hit. He was removed to the hospital where it was discovered his right leg was broken below the knee. He also sustained bruise and burn burns of the month reported to and investigated by the State Police. Canby will be charged with reckless driving.

DISCUSSING PROGRAM

At Pittsburgh today Army Ordnance officers and representatives of firms in this section are holding a meeting to discuss a proposed program for the speed up of the Army's new eight inch shells. The group while in the city inspected the new eight inch shell line at the McKeesport plant of the Jones-Laughlin Company and will hold a technical discussion in the Duquesne Club. Methods of expediting the heavy artillery shell program will also come in for attention. Among the firms represented at the meeting is the Struthers-Wells Company by J. T. Dillon and F. V. Williams.

SECOND FBI CONFERENCE

The second series of conferences of FBI and police and law enforcement officers of this end of the state will be held this month. The local officers will attend the session to be held at Bradford July 19. The conferences coordinate the activities of the police and the FBI and are most valuable. At this conference a demonstration of firearms by an FBI expert and an interesting discussion on "road blocking" by Captain Joseph G. McCann, of the Pennsylvania State Police. Other interesting discussions will complete an outdoor program designed to enlighten police officers on various phases of the work.

HOME FROM CAMP

Company I, 16th Regt. NGP, came home from Camp at an early hour Sunday morning. The boys traveled on a special train which carried other units of the Regiment from Corry, Erie and other points. The men had spent a strenuous ten days at Indiantown Gap in their annual encampment. Drills and other training were indulged in and the men were given an intensive course during the time they were there. The health of all of the members of the company was reported good while in camp and nearly all report losing some poundage working in the hot sun. Officers and men state that the camp life was worth while and the training received most valuable.

Ten Stringed Instruments For Hospitals

The camp and hospital committee of the local Red Cross chapter announces it is sending ten stringed musical instruments to be used in one of the area hospitals. All were given to the committee by individuals, following a recent plea for such gifts, and have been put in perfect condition by Al Lucia.

The committee feels it is a pleasure to be able to send so many instruments to these hospitals for use by the convalescent soldiers and that anyone having a part in the program may be assured of the pleasure to be derived from the gifts.

On its present request list for use in an army hospital, the committee has a plea for a used portable typewriter and two small radios.

Again the committee seeks the public's help in filling the request. Anyone having such articles is asked to get in touch with Red Cross headquarters or Mrs. T. L. Armstrong and the articles will be called for and put in condition before being sent on to the area hospital.

Will Triple District Flood Control For Post War Work

Washington, July 10—With six flood control dams already in operation for the protection of Pittsburgh and other Western Pennsylvania communities, U. S. Engineers will have almost three times as much work authorized and available for post-war construction.

The six reservoirs now in operation upstream from Pittsburgh, constructed before the war and complete except for minor details and some road relocations, cost 49½ million dollars and were credited with taking three feet off the crest of the New Year's Eve flood of 1942 at Pittsburgh.

Five additional flood control dams already authorized by Congress would call for a total construction cost of $80,885,000 and two other projects for the protection of Ohio River communities, included in the pending flood control bill, would boost the total to 14½ million dollars.

One of the dams now under consideration in the flood control bill alone would reduce a maximum flood at Pittsburgh by 1.4 feet. It is the proposed Rowlesburg reservoir on the Cheat River in West Virginia, to cost $29,230,000.

Everts Store Established Here in 1904

The E. D. Everts Hardware Company which has been acquired by Russell Hanson, mention of which was made in Friday's issue, was established by the late E. D. Everts in Warren in 1904 and continued until Mr. Everts died December 25, 1926, when the entire business passed into the hands of his wife, Mrs. Laura E. L. Everts, who conducted the business successfully for seventeen years.

G. C. Wright, a valued employee was selected by Mrs. Everts as her first manager and served until he became County Treasurer.

C. A. McMichael, another capable employee was then selected by Mrs. Everts as manager. Mr. McMichael served until his death in 1937.

On January first, J. Russell Hanson, one of the younger clerks of the store was chosen by Mrs. Everts to carry on the work as Manager. Russell continued in that important position until June 30, 1944, when the E. D. Everts Hardware was sold to him and he will continue the well known and established business under the firm's name, The E. D. Everts Hardware Company.

Local Pastor Has Call To New Charge

During the regular evening service on Sunday in the Plomin Holiness church, Pastor L. W. Drury read his resignation, to take effect in the immediate future.

Rev. Drury came to the local church in the summer of 1937 from had attended Bible Institute and pastored for three years.

Under his ministry the local church has made a marked progress, the Sunday school having practically doubled in attendance. At present the church is being enlarged to double the seating capacity.

Conference was held last week at Mt. Pleasant and the local man received an unanimous call to the Armbrust church of the same denomination in Westmoreland county.

It is not known as yet who will be coming to the Warren church but Rev. Drury will be speaking each Sunday until he moves to his new field.

jects authorized or to be authorized are larger than the largest of the existing dams, that on the Tygart River. Appropriations by Congress will be necessary when they are selected for construction by the U. S. Engineers.

It was indicated that the Cone-maugh and Allegheny River dams would be the first selected for construction, as engineers now are making detailed planning investigations for both projects.

The flood control bill also contains a provision for a Turtle Creek reservoir in Allegheny County, to cost $2,613,000 but its benefits will be for the Turtle Creek valley alone, alleviating creek floods, preventing back-flooding from the Monongahela River and improving low-flow pollution.

Obituary

Unless otherwise stated, visiting hours at Warren's funeral homes are from 10 a. m. to 12; 2 to 5 and 7 to 9 p. m.

J. HUGHWOT RUSSELL
J. Hughwot Russell, born at Russell April 11, 1876, died at his home, 209 Jackson street, at 1:25 a. m. Saturday. He leaves his wife, Winifred; two daughters and one son, Miss Irene, of Warren; Mrs. Pauline Miller and Carl Russell, of Philadelphia; three grandchildren; one brother, Lyle Russell, of Russell.

Funeral services were held at two o'clock this afternoon in the family home, conducted by Rev. Harold Knappenberger and followed by interment in Pine Grove cemetery at Russell.

MRS. IDA SIGWORTH

Funeral services for Mrs. Ida Sigworth were held on Friday, with Rev. J. E. Kiffer, of the local Free Methodist church, conducting a prayer service from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Roy Roberts, 118 Oak street, and rites in the afternoon from the Guilfoyle Methodist church. Rev. Korb officiated there and the following were bearers for interment in the church cemetery: Carl Roberts, Jr., Walter Roberts, Don Dolby, Delmar Dorsett, Ralph and Elmo Murray, Mary Sigworth, of Warren, Dorothy and Carmen Hendrickson, of Youngsville, sang two favorite hymns, "Over in Glory" and "Never Grow Old."

The services were largely attended by friends from far and near and the following relatives were among those from away: Mr. and Mrs. Don Dolby, Mr. and Mrs. Don Dolby, Freda Nowall and Marion Dolby, Oil City; Dorothy and Carmen Hendrickson and Esther Roberts, Youngsville; Mrs. Alvin Roberts, Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bidwell, Newport, R. I.; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Swaven, Bradford.

ARNOLD A. ANDERSON

Funeral services in memory of Arnold A. Anderson were held from his home in Smethport at 2 p. m. Friday, conducted by Rev. Russell Lundgren, of the Swedish Lutheran church. Burial was in the beautiful McKean Memorial Park cemetery at LaFayette.

Members of the immediate family who came from a distance were: Lt. Willard Anderson, who returned to this country in April after two years overseas, and his wife, from Aberdeen, Md.; Lt. and Mrs. Bryce Pierce and small son, of Laredo, Texas; Cpl. and Mrs. Clyde Lynch, New Cumberland; Arthur Anderson, Bogati, N. J.

Relatives from Warren who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Magnus Hilburn, Mrs. Alma Seagrist, Violet Seagrist and Mrs. Harold Anderson.

Mr. Anderson passed away at his home at 9:15 a. m., July 4. He had seemed in unusually good health and had just prepared a fire in the fireplace of his back yard in preparation for a picnic breakfast with relatives and a neighbor. He was stricken suddenly and died before a physician arrived.

MYRON DENNISON

Word was received here over the weekend that Myron Dennison, formerly of this city, died suddenly Saturday evening in Cleveland. He had been in failing health for more than a year, having suffered two strokes last summer and another more recently.

Employed in Cleveland for years with a manufacturing concern, Mr. Dennison is survived by his wife, the former Harriet Cobb; two daughters, Mrs. Robert Root and Mrs. Robert Hoffner, also two grandchildren, all of Cleveland. Prior to his going to Ohio, he and his brother, the late L. W. Dennison, conducted a clothing establishment in the Masonic Temple building.

Funeral services in his memory will be held at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday in the Sampson Funeral Home in Cleveland, with burial in that city.

WALTER ASA SCOTT

Walter A. Defense Unit Hears Salvage Work Report

The Warren County Defense Council held a short meeting Friday afternoon in the offices of the group on Market street. Chairman Allen Gibson was unable to be present due to illness and Vice Chairman P. C. Ostergard presided in his stead.

Report was made on the Salvage work done during the past month and Chairman Corbett was enthusiastic over the fact that during the month the county exceeded its quota for waste paper. The quota set for the county was 213 tons and in all 214½ tons were collected. This brought $436.24 into the fund for the USO. It is interesting to note that the Salvage Committee has given thousands of dollars to the Red Cross, USO, Salvation Army and other charitable causes. One hundred dollars has been earmarked for the "Times-Mirror" Alias Santa Claus Fund to be raised next Christmas.

Other salvage figures for last month showed that 423 tons of steel scrap were gathered and shipped; 66,250 pounds of rags were shipped and 28598 pounds of brass and copper were shipped. The collection of fats has fallen down due to the fact that during the hot weather it cannot be handled by housewives as the heat keeps it almost in a liquid state. Mr. Corbett also reported that he had taken 200 cartons to Shefield where the Central Pennsylvania Lumber Company is cleaning out its files and has hundreds of pounds of old letters. These bring a much higher price than does waste newsprint. The money derived from the sale of the old letters will be divided among three churches.

Orris Brown, secretary of the Defense Council reported that 2082 cards of absentee voters had been turned in to the Council and 3900 absentee voters would be entitled to it was expected that close to rolled before the campaign came to an end in the county.

It was also reported that gasoline has been secured for the volunteer truckmen engaged in the salvage drives. So far 600 gallons of gasoline have been consumed in the hauling of 150 carloads of salvaged material.

A tin can pick-up will be held on Wednesday of this week when every householder is urged to have their cans on the curb. Another wastepaper drive will take place on July 19.

During the meeting Ed C. Lowery and Clare A. Berger, of the Times-Mirror were presented with citations and ribbons for their work in the handling of the war work publicity.

Approximately one-fourth of the land surface of the United States is still forested.

UNDERGROUND COMES OUT IN OPEN

The climax of the French underground's battle is approaching, the climax toward which they have toiled for four dangerous, heartbreaking years. The Allies have landed, have appointed appointment of French Gen. Joseph Pierre Koenig as their commander-in-chief, and have distributed arms and munitions for 75,000 men.

The underground, coming into the open almost immediately after the Normandy landings, already has tied up large German forces in southern and southeastern France. We shall be hearing more from it. But already it has done more than most of us here in America realize.

We read that 40 per cent of German shells are duds, that there is a bottleneck in German plane replacement parts, that German troops and supplies are delayed by transportation tie-ups. And for this we can thank the underground as well as our Allied flyers.

The underground began in the shattered wreckage of a defeated France. Its organizers trained men and women for sabotage. The underground counteracted German lies, converted wavering patriots, published newspapers, wrecked enemy transportation and communication, and poisoned food going to Germany.

The members met in Paris subways and bombed-out houses. They stole arms, and transported them under Germans' noses. They were cold and hungry and sick, but they kept the spirit of free France alive, and kept the Allies informed of important German military developments by secret radio. Now, though still insufficiently armed, they create valuable diversionary assistance to the advancing armies of liberation.

It remains to be seen whether the approaching end of the underground's long fight will also mark the beginning of an end to the lamentable friction between the Allies and General De Gaulle. But the prospects look more hopeful than at any previous time, despite the general's petulance at the time of invasion.

Certainly General Eisenhower's approval of the Koenig appointment pleases the underground as well as General De Gaulle. For whatever London and Washington may think of Koenig, his popularity within France seems to be solid and widespread.

Doubtless the talks between President Roosevelt and General De Gaulle will advance Allied-French relations closer to a happy ending. Much hard fighting remains, and many difficulties must still be settled, but this long-delayed understanding is a prime requisite.

GRATIFYING WEEK-END

This has been a gratifying week-end for Allied arms the world around, with substantial victories recorded in Normandy and Russia, and American completion of the bloody conquest of the strategic island of Saipan in the central Pacific.

The Allies have made important progress in Normandy. They finally have ripped the German battle-line loose from its bitterly defended anchors at both ends. The Canadians and British took the ancient city of Caen on the Nazi eastern flank after 35 days of hell, while the Americans captured La Haye Du Puits on the western wing in the face of stubborn resistance.

The fall of Caen is of particular importance because this inland port and railway center was the key point of the German defense of the Peninsula. Had we been able to take this stronghold early in the invasion, it would have made a great difference in our progress in breaking into the French hinterland—progress which the Allied command had hoped would be much further ahead than it is now.

However, supreme Allied headquarters cautions us not to regard the victory at Caen as a major defeat of the Germans in the field, although it is a "serious reverse." The significance of the capture of Caen and La Haye Du Puits is that it paves the way for the decisive battle which we must win before we can free the peninsula of the enemy and thereby enable our forces to reach the open roads to Paris and Berlin. This great clash may be expected soon.

Over on the eastern front the great Russian offensive was surging forward with a speed and force which threatened to produce a collapse of the German defense of the Baltic states and East Prussia.

The American conquest of Saipan is a major victory. This island is the best airbase we have in the central Pacific and its possession opens up great possibilities. From Saipan our super-bombers can reach both Tokyo and the Philippines, which lie approximately 1,500 miles away, and we can bomb important Japanese sea communications. This island also affords great possibilities as a naval supply base.

The twenty-five day battle of Saipan was a sanguinary affair. Associated Press War Correspondent Robert James says that probably 95 percent of the Jap force, estimated at more than 20,000 was destroyed.

Stamp News

ICELAND, which became the world's youngest republic June 17 after voting its independence from Denmark, marked the event with a set of six stamps picturing Jon Sigurdsson, Icelandic historian and early leader in the drive to establish independence. The date "June 17, 1944" also appears on the stamps.

Appropriately, Sigurdsson's birthday also was June 17. He was born in 1811 and it was mainly through his efforts that Iceland obtained a constitution from Denmark. He died in 1879. Values of the six stamps are 10, 25 and 50 auro and 1, 5 and 10 kronur.

A five centavo blue and white stamp was issued by Argentina to mark the first anniversary of the June 4, 1943 revolution in which the government of President Ramon S. Castillo was overthrown by an army group led by Gen. Pedro Ramirez. The latter was ousted himself last February in favor of Gen. Edmundo Farrell, currently president. From Argentina also comes word that the postal authorities have abandoned plans to issue semi-postal stamps annually to raise funds for postal employees. The first set was issued early this year but apparently did not meet with public favor.

I ATE last year, French-mandated Lebanon refused to accept former Premier Emil Eddeh for another term of office, proclaimed its independence and created an incident that drew the attention of the Allies. Eventually Eddeh disappeared and Lebanon was granted self-government by the French National Committee of Liberation.

During the incident all stamps bearing Eddeh's portrait were burned. To replace these issues Lebanon announces that a set of 10 stamps soon will be issued.

Postage values and designs, according to Scott Stamp & Coin Co., will be 25 and 50 piastres, parliament building, 100 and 200-p, a government building. Airmails will include 25 and 50-p, views of Bshamoun, 100 and 200-p, citadel of Rachaya, and 300 and 500-p, views of Beyroul. —George A. Scott

Two motorcycles and sidecars owned by the State Police Department were burned in a fire at the Peerless Garage last night. J. E. Springer and E. C. Fox were the officers who had left their machines in the garage.

F. C. Dean, agent of the PRR at Kinzua, has received a letter from the railroad suggesting that a paper company is looking for a site for a plant. The citizens of Kinzua have taken action and will provide a site.

The Parentos, who have a show on the road had the misfortune to get mixed up with a wind storm at Clarion. The show canvas was badly damaged by the storm.

Harry Slavkey, Warren county No. 1 angler hooked several fine bass yesterday while fishing at the Conewango dam. The fish were of large size and after being caught were returned to the water.

Mr. and Mrs. Thad Risher, of Brazil, Ind., are in the city guests of friends. This is Mr. Risher's first visit to Warren in 20 years. He attended high school here and was a star on the old WHS football team.

Election of members for the staff of the public schools has been postponed until July 16. At the meeting of the board held last evening repairs to a number of buildings were authorized.

Warren automobile drivers who have occasion to go to Bradford are asked to exercise caution on the Marshburg stretch. This has just been oiled and is sticky and very dangerous.

The Youngville correspondent reports that while strawberries were somewhat of a failure the raspberries at the Lauger farm promise to be plentiful.

Henry P. Riddesperger has been named to the office of county commissioner to take the place of James K. Bell who has resigned to take over the position of postmaster here.

Hundreds from this section spent the fourth at Bradford. The shrines held a ceremonial in connection with the showing of the Ringling-Barnum and Bailey circus there. Others spent the day at the lake and the old town was somewhat deserted.

GERMANY'S FIRST AIR RAID Germany's first raid on England occurred more than 29 years ago when, on Jan. 19, 1915, Yarmouth and surrounding towns were raided.

Our Merchant Marine

They Should Know

Our Navy relies on the Merchant Marine

No maritime nation has ever been able to fight a war successfully without an adequate Merchant Marine, declares Admiral Ernest I. King, Commander-in-Chief, U.S. Fleet.

Our armies everywhere are dependent upon our Merchant Marine

General Dwight D. Eisenhower says: "When final victory is ours there is no organization that will share its credit more deservedly than the Merchant Marine."

Plans of the Chief of Staff hinge upon the Merchant Marine

General George C. Marshall declared that our Merchant Marine is making it possible to transport fighting men and supplies wherever they are needed to defeat the enemy.

and all makes of Cars and Trucks

- Fast acceleration cuts gas mileage as much as 20-30 per cent. Accelerate gradually in first and second speeds.
- Quick starting and stopping wastes gas! Maintain even speed; anticipate traffic stops.
- Drive at moderate speeds; 20-30 M.P.H. is the most economical. On the highway, don't exceed 35 M.P.H.
- Under-inflated tires increase rolling resistance and tire wear! Check tire inflation weekly.
- Dragging brakes waste gas! Keep brakes properly adjusted. For safety, have them relined if necessary.
- Have your car lubricated regularly—make sure your oil filter is working efficiently. Replace if needed.
- Evaporation occurs faster in hot weather. Don't neglect the battery. Add water frequently as needed.
- A dirty or neglected cleaner impairs engine performance. Have the air-cleaner inspected and cleaned if necessary.

Army Appeals For Women To Be Technicians

Announcement has been made by Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, surgeon general, that the Army needs 22,000 women immediately to serve as medical technicians in hospitals and the Women's Army Corps has been assigned the task of recruiting these workers.

A WAC officer has been assigned to interview applicants in western Pennsylvania and all inquiries may be addressed to the Officer Procurement District office, 2003 Clark Building, Pittsburgh.

According to army officers, openings in 15 classifications of medical technicians offer opportunities for women never before presented by the Women's Army Corps. The technicians are assured of training and definite assignments in a specific field for medical department work, provided they manifest the proper qualifications and meet the army physician requirements.

Teachers, social workers and college students with backgrounds related to the technical subjects offered in the 15 categories are being sought. High school students will be eligible for some of the jobs after training in an army school.

Specific classes of technicians being sought by the WAC include pharmacists, optometrists, psychiatric social workers, orthopedic, laboratory, dental and x-ray technicians. Trained workers for the blind and deaf, occupational therapists and educational reconditioning personnel are also needed.

WILLOW CREEK

Willow Creek, July 4—Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Talerico and family have moved to Bradford to live. Miss Katherine Himes of Bradford is spending today with her father, Mr. Cloyd Himes.

Barbara Jean Cobb is guest of relatives in Bradford.

Donna Stewart who has been guest of Jamestown relatives for several days, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Jarrett and family, who have spent the past few months in Tampa, Florida, have returned in their trailer, and are camping here in Willow Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Pifer and family of Bradford recently visited Willow Creek friends.

Mrs. Merton Weymer of Salamanca recently visited Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cobb and family.

Beverly Johnson of West Branch has returned home after spending a few days with local relatives.

Miss June Cobb, who is employed in Jamestown, N. Y., has been ill.

Miss Betty Brooks of Bradford has been recent guest of local relatives.

Last Thursday, June 29th, marked the eighteenth birthday of Robert Holsinger son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis B. Holsinger. The day was an eventful one for "Bob", a day for which he had been waiting for months. He celebrated the occasion by joining the navy.

He is to be congratulated for his spirit of patriotism. Mr. and Mrs. Holsinger have another son, Cpl. Glenn Holsinger, in England.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester McLean and son, Paul, of Warren, were visitors today of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith, Sr.

Tommy Jarrett, son of Alec Jarrett, Jr., of Bradford was one of the inductees to leave Bradford for training Camp last Friday. He was a frequent visitor of Mr. and

DETAIL FOR TODAY Captain of the Head

CAPTAIN OF THE HEAD is the title bestowed upon the Navy man who is assigned the task of painting and cleaning the washroom. It's a friendly sort of detail and you seldom have cause to be lonely because your shipmates are continually coming in to wash clothes, shave, take a shower or wash up. This, of course, makes a bit difficult to complete your job in less than 10 or 12 hours—you've no sooner finished cleaning the wash bowl when someone comes in to wash his hands and you have to scrub it all over again. If he's smart, a CAPTAIN OF THE HEAD can make the job last all day if he wants to—and most of 'em are smart.

A bear was reported to have been seen very near the Keach home recently. Others report having seen bruin crossing the state highway near the Bradford reservoir.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis B. Holsinger have returned from a vacation with Pittsburgh relatives.

Clarence and Charles Smith accompanied Ida and Jack Olivetti of Bradford to Celoron today.

Lucy Mae Holsinger has been a recent guest of her sister, Mrs. Harry Crandall and family of Bradford.

The prayer meeting last week was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Stewart on Thursday evening.

Miss Eva Crouch was in Allegheny, N. Y., yesterday.

Nancy Lea Cobb was the weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Johnson of West Branch.

Richard Stewart had the misfortune to cut his thumb badly last Thursday evening. He was given medical attention in Bradford.

Mr. and Mrs. William Goetz and daughter, Rachel and Ruth, of Bradford were local visitors today.

Local friends were glad to hear from Pfc. Frank J. Uivan of Kane, a former Corydon student and frequent visitor here, that he is serving his country in Normandy, France, in a Medical Br. He writes that the French people are hospitable and very glad to see them. They are greeted with flowers, which they throw into their vehicles.

Robert Holsinger is having his vacation this week.

Katherine Himes of Bradford celebrated her sixteenth birthday yesterday.

Private Florence Cobb, stationed in Camp Forrest, Tenn., is expected home on a furlough soon.

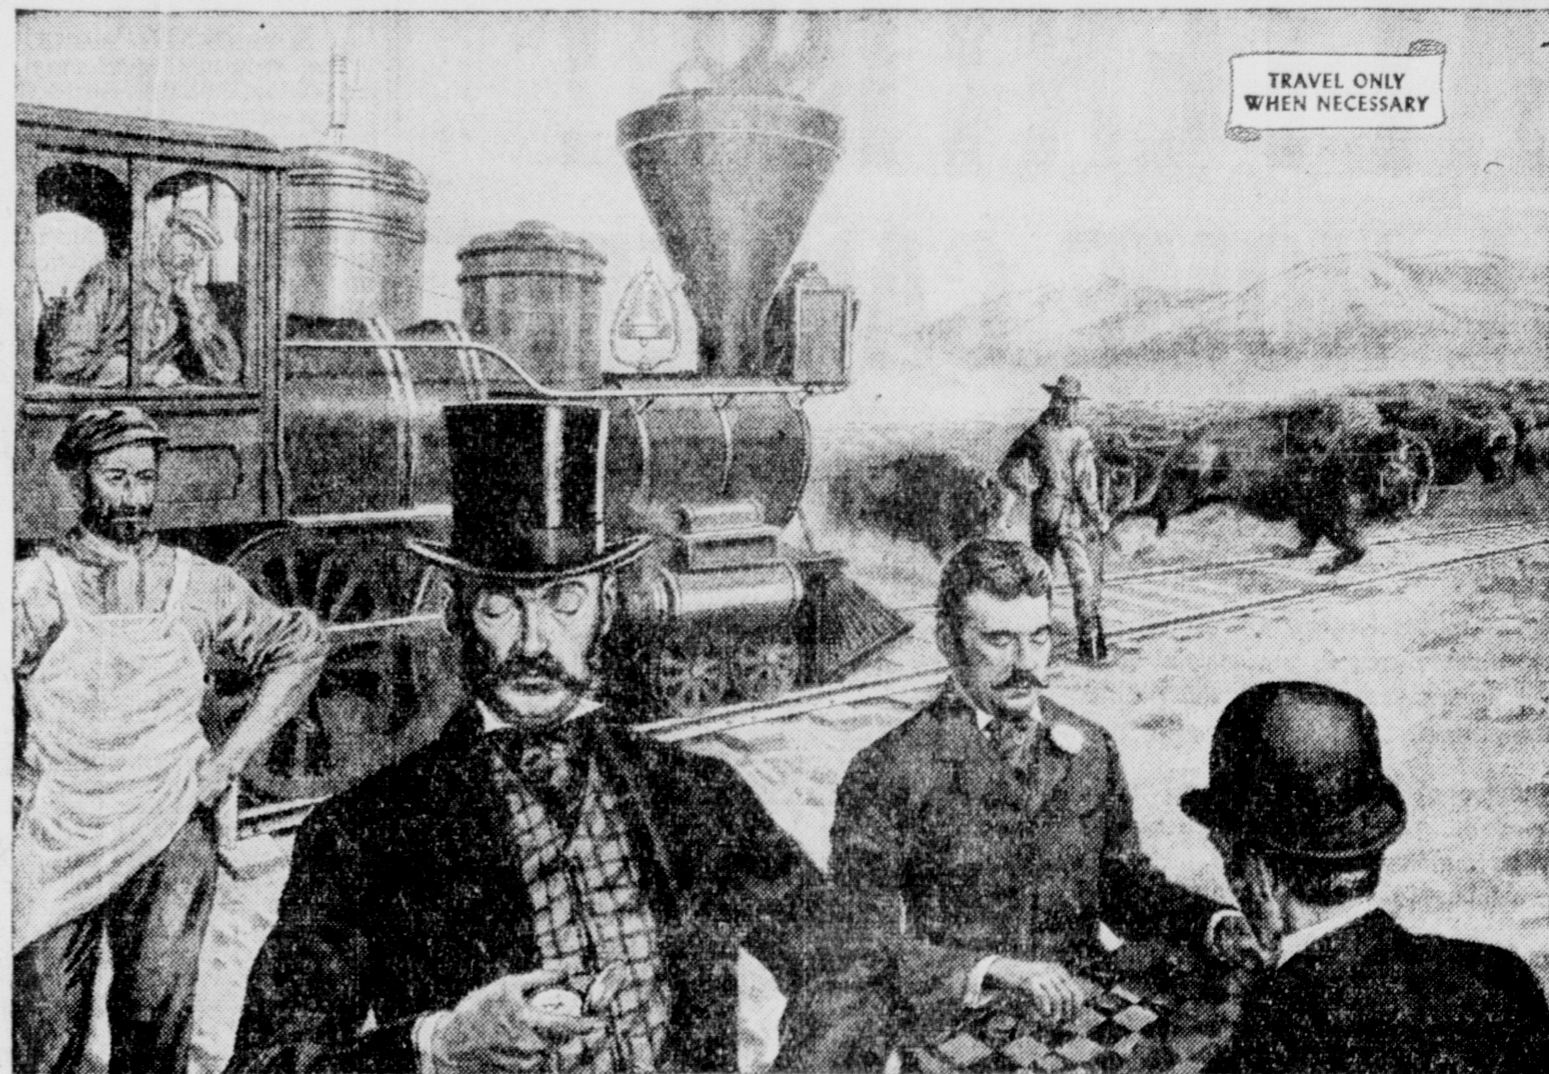

Mrs. William J. McDermott was in Gifford today.

Thomas Cobb was a recent overnight guest of Salamanca relatives.

Miss Ann Mucha of Buffalo was a caller at the Stewart home today.

Miss Joan Stewart is guest of relatives in Jamestown, N. Y.

Although the Fourth was quiet

When Buffaloes Stopped the Iron Horse ...TRAVELERS WERE PATIENT

Remembering the hardships of the stagecoach and covered wagon days, travelers once looked upon the new woodburner trains as solid luxury... despite choking smoke, bumpy roadbeds; no electric lights, no berths or dining cars... despite delays of hours on end when great herds of migrating buffaloes marooned them in the middle of an endless prairie.

Today, if the train, plane or bus is late, if reservations are hard to get or we can't squeeze into the dining car, we can still take comfort in the fact that America is moving at a pace that has astounded the world.

When this war is won, the transportation facilities of our country will have hung up an incredible record for efficient movement of fighting men and freight—and civilians, too. Meanwhile, public opinion is agreed that we should not travel unless absolutely necessary and, if we must go, take inconveniences cheerfully and patiently—like good soldiers.

In addition to supplying the armed forces with glider and bomber fuselage frames, wing parts, gun turret parts and foodstuffs, Anheuser-Busch produces materials which go into the manufacture of: Rubber • Aluminum • Munitions • Medicines • B Complex Vitamins • Hospital Diets • Baby Foods • Bread and other Bakery products • Vitamin-fortified cattle feeds • Batteries • Paper • Soap and Textiles—to name a few.

DIRK asked, grimly, "Moira, that night we followed you to the Cove, and you escaped back to the house underground, did you know about Josh's body in the tunnel?"

Moira's lips were stiff. "Yes," she said. "I did. And I reasoned that Gil hadn't had an opportunity to dispose of his body. And that night I thought you were Gil! I had discovered the tunnel from the Cove to the shop and what was hidden there, a few days before that. I found traces on the shop end of the tunnel where the door had been changed to swing into the tunnel instead of into the shop. The row of barrels stacked in there provided an effective barrier. I suppose Gil had used the tunnel for secret trips to the Cove to deliver information to spies posing as fishermen, before he hit on the more direct method of shipping information in the candles."

"Why," Spring asked, frowning over all the questions pushing into her mind, "did you walk at night? Were you afraid of Gil, Aunt Drusilla?"

"I was afraid for the others in the house," Drusilla answered, her blue eyes bleak. "I tried to keep watch on Gil. I knew he was leaving the house at night, but I couldn't find how. I didn't know about the tunnel."

"Did... did you see Jo?" Spring faltered helplessly.

Drusilla paled. "I was in the front parlor when it happened. I heard you go through the hall. After that I couldn't talk."

Spring was aghast. "You thought I did it?"

Drusilla shook her head wearily. "No, Spring, no! But Gil knew you were downstairs, I don't know where he saw you, but he did. He had the perfect hold he wanted on me after that. One word from him and police would have held you."

Spring trembled with a sudden recollection of horror. "Oh! Then it wasn't Moira on the stairs! It was Gil!"

"No," Moira corrected, "I was the one on the stairs! I had been down to the Cove to contact the Coast Guard ship off shore. I think Gil was bluffing about seeing you, Spring, it was just a threat to Drusilla that happened to strike true."

"What," Justen spoke now, "did Jo mean by those three words she tried to tell us, 'the beaver moved'?"

Dirk looked at Moira. She said: "I knew. But my own information was linked with the other serious problem concerning many more lives, the leakage of shipping and production and troop stationing news that Gil was sending Axis agents in England. You see, Jo had apparently wandered down into the back parlor that night, sleeplessness, or something. We all know she loved Elkan, that was what caused her antagonism toward Spring. In the dark, Gil didn't know anyone was in the back parlor, and the tunnel we used tonight from the back parlor to the shop, was the passageway Gil used in his night trips. He came through the entrance back of the suit of armor."

"The suit of armor!" Spring echoed.

"Yes, I discovered that one day when Gil and Theron had gone into town. You know how the armor is set in that little niche in the east wall? Well, I discovered there was something odd about the way the armor was mounted and I found it wasn't really mounted against the wall itself, but that the section of the wall is hollow and opens into the suit of armor. The armor had been welded in such a fashion that the front section swung open, like a mummy case. All Gil had to do to see if the coast was clear each time was to move the beaver. And that night he saw Jo."

"The beaver!" Justen ejaculated. "That's what Jo said! What are you talking about?"

"That's what Mrs. Manning discovered tonight," Dirk said heavily. "She had the inspiration to look in the dictionary and found that a beaver, beside being an animal, is the part of the headgear of a suit of armor, the thing we would call a visor."

SPRING grasped it all slowly. There was so much to comprehend. There was so much that was evil and sinister. So much of horror crowded into one terrible week.

"But," she asked, "how could Gil have known that Great Aunt Adelaide knew?"

"Because," Dirk said grimly, "he surprised Mrs. Manning in the very same way he did Jo. By a superhuman effort fostered by her determination to catch Jo's killer, she had propelled herself into her wheel chair and across the hall down into the back parlor tonight."

Spring remembered the gray heap on the couch and her throat ached suddenly. "Aunt Adelaide went in there!"

Dirk nodded. "Gil stepped out, carefully, and Adelaide saw him. He killed her and then pushed the chair back into her room. Then he signaled for Theron at the shop and arranged for Theron to ring the bell after Gil had time to escape up the back stairs to his room. But he made a bad mistake. While it was possible for Mrs. Manning to reach the bell cord from the wheel chair, it wasn't possible for her to have sat where she did and drop the dictionary, fifteen feet up the back stairs to his room, on the floor beneath the hurricane lamp! And the dictionary had the page turned down at the definition of the word 'beaver'."

ATTENTION! ALL HOME CANNERS!

If we all pitch in, 1944 will see the greatest food production in our history.

But that will require your help.

It's up to you to: 1, grow every ounce of food you possibly can; 2, use all the food you grow; 3, can your food by the proper and safe methods.

Every ounce of home-canned food is urgently needed. Your Government begs you not only to match what you did last year but, if possible, to beat your 1943 record.

Put up fruits and tomatoes by the boiling-water bath method—a safe and satisfactory method for these foods.

But before you begin your 1944 canning of all other vegetables, Good Housekeeping wants to tell you how to avoid a danger that may occur in home-canned food—a danger recognized by many authorities, including the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

That danger is botulinus food poisoning!

Botulinus poisoning comes from bacteria that live in the soil and cling to vegetables. It is rare—but it isn't confined to just a few parts of the country, as some people think.

Botulinus germs may be on the food you can. They must be destroyed. Whenever these bacteria are present in the food and are not destroyed during the canning process, they gradually produce a toxin which is poisonous.

It takes hotter-than-boiling heat to kill botulinus germs. Neither hot-water bath nor open-kettle canning provides enough heat to destroy them. That is why we advise: the only safe way to can low-acid vegetables—which means all vegetables except tomatoes—is by the correct use of a pressure cooker!

If you don't already own a pressure cooker, you'll be glad to know that the Government is allowing the manufacture of 400,000 new cookers for sale this summer, without priorities.

If you can't buy a pressure cooker, borrow your neighbor's... or perhaps you'll find one available through a community canning group. If not, form your own community group, and buy one. To be safe, don't can low-acid vegetables any other way.

We take this opportunity to issue two further warnings: 1. Oven canning is dangerous. It has caused many serious accidents to persons and to property. Shun it! 2. All home-canned foods should be examined carefully when opened. If there is evidence of spoilage, the food should not be used. NEVER TASTE to discover spoilage.

By all means, put up every ounce of surplus food you possibly can. Our armed forces and the hungry nations of the earth need the benefits of our abundance.

MURDER at CANDLEWOOD by Gene Bunker Lumley

Chapter 25

"BUT, DIRK," Spring insisted, "You said Gil escaped up the back stairs to his room! The stairs don't go to his room! Moira's room is at the head of the back stairs! Gil's is on the other side of that, and the only way to get there is down the little corridor off the main hall!"

Dirk nodded. "But, if you recall, Spring, the balcony outside your room extends across the back of the house to my room. Gil could go up the backstairs and step out through the back hall window onto the balcony, and from there directly into his own room!"

Justus looked skeptical. Dirk said firmly, "It can be done. I saw him do it!"

Something stirred again in Spring's memory. "Dirk it was you I heard on the balcony! Just before the bell rang!"

Dirk looked at her. "I stumbled against your window when I pressed back against the house wall when I saw Gil. I didn't want him to see me."

"What were you doing out there?" Justus asked. Dirk half smiled. "No use, Justus! I wasn't going to kill anybody. I was keeping guard over Spring and trying to signal the coast guard for Moira. The house is visible from the Cove at that point."

"Moira admitted her side of the business to me the day after you and I found the Cove tunnel. She had been trying desperately for two days to hit upon the secret of Gil's transmission of vital military information and stolen plans and drawing to the Axis. He was acting as a clearing house for their agents in this area. Moira was sure the candle shipment going out this week had something to do with it. She was trying to make contact with men in a rowboat from the coast-guard ship that night when we saw the lights in the Cove. I was to signal them tonight to wait, for Moira had discovered the secret late this afternoon. But she hadn't found the secret messages."

"Dirk stopped to light another cigarette. 'Spring, if you recall tonight when I left you in the shop, I found all those halved candles?'"

"Yes!"

"THE secret Moira discovered this afternoon was that Gil was sending the messages in a certain packing case, they being wrapped around the wick and coated over to look exactly like the others. Tonight we found the case and took it to the Cove, substituting another. Meanwhile Gil discovered that the message candles were gone, and in a panic thought they had been taken to the house for the day's supply, and that's why the candles were all missing tonight and the shop was strewn with halved ones! But they couldn't find the secret messages."

"You knew all this!" Justus exclaimed.

"I'd reached the point where I had to have help," Moira admitted.

"But why did you run away with Aunt Drusilla?"

"Because," Moira said fiercely, "When Mrs. Manning was found tonight, I knew the inevitable twist matters would take. Gil would have killed Drusilla, and left unmistakable evidence of suicide, everything indicating a twisted mind that had caused her to do away with her friends and family. After that Gil would have had complete run of Candlewood to himself."

Justus jumped up, starting all of them. "Where's that fellow Theron?"

Dirk put out his hand calmly. "He's taken care of. When I knew that Moira had escaped with Drusilla and I left Spring here, I circled back toward your place and caught Theron unaware on the trail. It didn't take too long to trust him up. Then I came back to the shop, just as Moira called for help, and—well, that's it."

HOURS later, when the Coast Guard had come and the candle messages were safe in government hands, and Gil and Theron had been taken to their inevitable fate, Spring took beside Dirk at the Cove and watched the second Coast Guard motor boat recede. The other vessel had removed the two bodies. Moira was reporting to Washington for a new assignment. Justus was enlisting tomorrow. And Aunt Drusilla was going back to Illinois with Spring to the farm.

"As the Coast Guard boat turned the bend in the river, Candlewood was left alone in the hills, nudged like a grim and forsaken creature under the black storm clouds that still walled high above the line of trees that crouched over the house itself. Spring and Dirk faced expectantly out to sea."

"We have one week left together, Spring," Dirk reminded. "We'll make up for all of this. We'll be married at the chapel back home."

"I never did show you the cardinal in the poplar," she whispered, against his shoulder. "And the rabbit hole in the drive!"

Tiona Soldier Lost In Action Popular Here

Brief mention was made in Friday's Times-Mirror that Mr. and Mrs. Willard Dunn, of Tiona, had received word from the War Department informing them their son, Pfc. Willard Earl Dunn, had been killed in action in France June 6. No details were given in the brief message but a letter is expected to follow soon.

Pfc. Dunn was born in Sheffield October 27, 1919, attending public school there until his parents moved to Tiona and he attended Warren High School for two years before enlisting in the army July 31, 1939.

He was sent to Panama and was stationed there until October 27, 1941, when he returned to the United States for further training. He sailed for England in June of 1942 and was with the invasion forces in both Africa and Sicily.

He was then returned to England and stationed there until the invasion of Normandy. He belonged to the famous First Division. Young Dunn was well liked around his home community and in Sheffield, where he was a member of the Methodist church.

Besides his parents, he leaves two brothers, Jack, of Warren, and Robert, of Camp Carson, Colo.; three sisters, Audrey, Annabelle and Etta Mae, at home; also his grandmother, Mrs. Nettie Jobson, of Buffalo, N. Y.

William M. Boreman, former civilian flying instructor from 110 Terrace street, this city, has arrived at Randolph Field, Texas, for technical training under veteran AAF training command instructors of Central Instructors School. Upon completion of the course he will become a flying officer of the AAF Air Transport Command.

Pfc. Carl D. Peterson, son of Mrs. E. Peterson, of Kinzua, was graduated last week from the AAF flexible gunnery school at Laredo Army Air Field in Texas, receiving, along with his diploma, his aerial gunner's silver wings and a promotion in grade.

Pvt. William Charles Bjers, 405 1/2 Fourth avenue, and Anthony Frank Cerando, 414 Laurel street, are reported among new arrivals for heavy weapon training at Camp Wolters, Texas.

Cpl. Roger B. Williamson, son of Mrs. Pearl McLean, 101 Russell street, has been graduated from the AAF training Command's flexible gunnery school at Buckingham Field near Fort Myers, Fla. He entered the army ten months ago, having been an aircraft mechanic for Locomotive Airways at Williamsport. He also completed the aviation mechanics school course at Goldsboro, N. C.

Sgt. John E. Wyckoff, home on furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wyckoff of Weldbank, returned to Wright Field Friday and will report soon to gunnery school at Harlingen, Texas.

Friends here have heard word that Apprentice Seaman P. W. Camp, former Sheffieldite employed here by Sylvania Products, is receiving his basic training at Camp Peary, Va.

Lt. and Mrs. Willis Lundahl are here on leave with their families while en route from Serbing, Fla., to Lincoln, Neb., where the former will start his training with B-29 Super-Fortresses.

Word has been received from Cpl. Wilbert C. Gladd, son of Mrs. Hulda Gladd, 13 Monroe street, that he has arrived safely in New Guinea. A special dispatch received from the overseas Air Service Command headquarters reports that another son, Sgt. Chas. L. Gladd, has completed his course at a control depot and is ready for assignment to his next station. Before entering the army, Sgt. Gladd was employed as a machine operator at the Penn Furnace and Iron plant.

Word has been received that Lewis Sanden, 622 Beech street, who left two weeks ago, has been assigned to Sampson, N. Y., naval training station for initial instruction. His brother, Pvt. John Sanden, who has been in England, is husband, Capt. Edward McGrath, that he had the pleasure of an accidental meeting with his brother, 1st Lt. Maurice McGrath, somewhere on the battlefields of France, and learned their outfits were fighting only five miles apart.

Capt. McGrath is a service company commander in the 29th Division, which reportedly suffered the heaviest casualties on D-Day. His regiment has already received a presidential citation for meritorious action in the initial assault. He was an employee of the United Refining Company before he was called into active duty in August, 1941. He has been stationed in England for the past year.

IN NAVY HOSPITAL Mr. and Mrs. Sam Salapek have had a letter from their son, Joseph J. Salapek, seaman second class, that he is confined to the U. S. Naval Hospital, Ward 45, at Chelsea, Mass., and would like to hear from his friends.

WOUNDED IN ACTION Mr. and Mrs. Frank Montoro, of Claridon, have received word that their son, Pfc. Joseph Montoro, was wounded in action somewhere in the southwest Pacific and is resting comfortably in a hospital somewhere in the combat area.

RECEIVES MEDAL Mrs. Stanley Olander, of Irvine, has received word that her brother, Pfc. Edward Joseph Royek, of Corry, who is with a signal battalion somewhere in England, has been awarded the Good Conduct Medal.

GETS PROMOTION Mrs. Shirley Bean, of Weldbank, has had word that her son, Sgt. Laverne Bean, who is hospitalized in the station hospital at Coral Gables, Fla., has been promoted to staff sergeant.

Pvt. John J. Dutches is home on a ten-day furlough from Camp McCain, Miss., visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Dutches, Jr., 111 Russell street.

Miss Virginia M. Anderson, 219 Oneida avenue, switchboard operator at the Bell Telephone office here for some time left yesterday for Buffalo where she has been transferred to become toll operator.

Rain has not been known for three years on some farms in the Rudolph Lake district of the Kenya colony in East Africa.

Chapter 1

THERE was an air of expectancy about the airport. In a few minutes the plane from the West Coast would arrive. Already it could be seen spreading its wings over Manhattan. Its outlines clearly discernible against the blue sky.

As it drew nearer two newspaper cameramen edged their way through the chattering groups, showed their credentials, and were allowed to pass through the gates onto the landing field. With characteristic nonchalance they set up their cameras, lit cigarettes, and stood waiting.

Presently the plane adjusted itself on the beam and began to descend. As it did so, the little groups of watchers—mainly women—merged together and pressed forward toward the gates. They could not go any farther. They could not go out on the field as the cameramen had. But each eager face seemed to say, "I'm expecting someone important too. Someone very important—to me!"

Standing apart from the crowd, her face pressed against the thick glass that separated the ramp from the landing field, was a young girl. Her eyes were blue—dark blue, almost the color of the suit she was wearing. Her face was quite pale, for she wore no makeup, and her shoulder-length brown curls followed no prescribed style. Her prettiness was more a matter of youth and eager wishfulness than perfection of feature.

Beside her stood a woman whose blue eyes and brown hair, now touched with gray, identified her as the girl's mother. They were alike, and yet not alike, for the woman's flustered, nervous manner was in sharp contrast to the girl's quiet poise. It was obvious that they too were expecting someone important. But they were not smiling. Suddenly the girl turned.

There wasn't a girl who hadn't envied her—or a boy who, at one time or another, had made love to her.

"But that was three years ago," Louise reminded herself resolutely. "Of course she's changed, now. A girl can't go through what Angel has without changing a lot. Mother's having her worries for nothing. I wish I could tell her so."

"Even as a baby Angel was beautiful," Martha was saying now, her anxious eyes taking on a dreamy expression.

Martha's life story was one of sacrifice and service for her children. If anyone had accused her of favoritism for Angel, she would have denied it vehemently. It was just that Angel had been born with an angelic face and a passion for attention.

Moreover, Angel had grown up at a time when Martha's beauty shop was doing a flourishing business, and had been given every advantage. Louise, being four years younger, had waited. It wasn't Martha's fault that her business failed when Louise was just out of high school. Or that the bright plans she had made for Bobby, her seventeen-year-old son, would never be realized.

"Of course I'm not saying you weren't pretty, too, Louise," she said hastily. "There were times when you were even prettier than Angel. And you did have the most wonderful disposition."

She reached out and touched an errant curl that had fallen across Louise's cheek, tucked it carefully back in place. "I love your hair this way, dear. You should wear it down all the time. It makes you look quite glamorous. I can't understand why, you go in for those old-maidish hairdos."

Louise grinned. "Maybe I'd rather be safe than glamorous," she teased. "When you're carrying the torch for a riveter—and that's a machine, Mother, not a man—you can't have the works getting into your hair. The supervisors won't stand for it. If you don't mind, darling, I'll stick to the old-maidish hair-dos and hang on to my job—and my head."

Martha frowned and turned away. She didn't like to think of Louise having to operate a riveter in a defense plant. But she was grateful for one thing: she had managed to maneuver the conversation away from Angel, and the fear that was clutching at her heart.

IMPATIENTLY, Louise turned back to look at the plane. It had taxied to a stop now. In a moment the passengers would be coming out. Among them would be Angel, the sister Louise and her mother had not seen for three years. Angel, who had left school two years ago to elope with young Jimmie Saunders, an army aviator whom the family had never seen. Angel, who had broken a two-year silence to write them that Jimmie had been reported missing in action, and that she was coming home with Baby Jeanne. She had said in her letter that she knew Jimmie was dead, but while there had been no official confirmation from the War Department to that effect, her feelings and instincts could tell her nothing else.

The letter had arrived early this morning, forwarded from the Forest Hills address. There had been no way of preparing Angel for the shock that awaited her; no way of telling her that Martha's business had failed. No chance to tell her that they'd given up the pretty cottage in Forest Hills to take a cheap railroad flat in Brooklyn. There had been no way to let her know that Louise had given up her studies at Columbia and was working the swing shift in a Brooklyn defense plant; that Martha herself had been compelled to take a menial job at a ridiculously low salary because of her age.

Is Awarded Bronze Star

Martha James Bundas, 1012 Fourth avenue, has received word that her husband, Pvt. John J. Bundas, was awarded the Bronze Star decoration for heroic achievement in action on May 14, 1944 in Italy.

When informed by a returning member of a squad, which had been caught by enemy artillery fire, that the squad leader had been wounded, Pvt. Bundas proceeded under heavy fire over exposed terrain to render first aid and evacuate him to safety.

The citation accompanying the decoration reads: "His disregard for his own personal safety to aid the wounded soldier reflects credit upon himself and the military service."

Pvt. Bundas entered military service from Warren.

BROTHERS MEET ON BATTLEFIELD

Mrs. Edward McGrath, of Sheffield, has received word from her husband, Capt. Edward McGrath, that he had the pleasure of an accidental meeting with his brother, 1st Lt. Maurice McGrath, somewhere on the battlefields of France, and learned their outfits were fighting only five miles apart.

Capt. McGrath is a service company commander in the 29th Division, which reportedly suffered the heaviest casualties on D-Day. Ice Cream To Be Served At Party Friday

Mrs. Walter Mathyer, chairman of the Community P.T.A. Council's ice cream social for the benefit of its summer community recreation program, has asked that if possible tickets should be purchased by Wednesday. It is important that the committee have an estimate to make arrangements for the supply of ice cream on Friday evening.

Two thousand tickets have been printed and are in the hands of sub-chairmen in the different sections of the borough, North Warren, and Pleasant township. Tickets may also be secured at the Y. W. C. A., the Y. M. C. A., Cozy Corner, Candyland, the United Cigar Store, and Harvey and Carver's.

One hundred and sixty cakes are being solicited by the committee. One club, the Pre-School Mother's Club, headed by Mrs. Walter Pearson, reported on Friday that it would be responsible for 19. Anyone willing to help may call Mrs. Walter Mathyer, Phone 1439R.

Help from boys in the community will also be needed tonight and tomorrow at 7 o'clock on the Beaty Court, Jim Farrell and his committee have applied the cement filler and will start tonight to coat the court with two applications of wax for the outside dancing on Friday evening.

This is the most ambitious enterprise which has been sponsored by the Community P.T.A. Council and widespread cooperation will be needed if the summer recreation program is successful.

INSPECTED STACK Joseph Huber, foreman and Joseph Burkhardt, of the Rust Engineering Company of Pittsburgh have completed the inspection of the stack erected by the Rust Company for the Sherwood Refinery here some months ago. The stack is 300 feet in height and is one of the highest in the country, there being few that exceed it in its dimensions. Workmen are all so rebuilding the high stack of the National Forge and Ordnance Company at Irvine. This stack is a metal one and a portion of it has been taken down and will be re-erected.

Washington is the westernmost state in the Union.

Ration Roundup

Forgers Compelled to Go Ten Innings To Win From Erie Brabenders By 6 to 5 Score

Erie Brabenders lived up to all that was said about them when they forced the Forgers to go all out in a ten-inning game for a 6 to 5 victory at Wilder Field before a good crowd Sunday.

Hines and Blowers pitched smart and brilliant ball, but Hines was the more unfortunate as he had five errors behind him which produced most of the visitors' runs. The errors on the part of the Forgers, plus the speed and head-up ball that the visitors played put Forge behind the eight ball and came nearly costing them their first defeat of the season.

The visitors possessed a young, fast team with good fielding, and some throws from the outfield and infield that kept the Forge in hot water all afternoon.

Forge opened the scoring in the first. Creola singled, Massa sacrificed him to second. Morrison tripled scoring Creola and Morrison came home on a squeeze by Rosequist.

Erie scored in the fourth. Torelli was safe on Solock's error, who had a bad day, incidentally. Torelli stole second and went to third on Rosequist's error, scoring on a fly ball to right field.

Forge was checked by Blowers, and Erie in the fifth pushed over two runs. Torelli singled, Brabender was safe on an error by Natale. A passed ball and fly to the outfield helped shove them across when J. Massa and Morrison singled and Natale, who is hitting the ball hard and playing his usual fine game, sent a tremendous drive into deep left field for a home run, giving Forge a 5-3 lead, which looked like the end of the scoring for the day, but Erie waited until the last of the ninth.

Walters Looms as Starting Pitcher For the Nationals In All-Star Game Tuesday

By JACK HAND

Pittsburgh, July 10.—(P)—Bucky Walters of Cincinnati looms as the probable National League starting pitcher in the 12th annual All-Star game tomorrow night at Forbes Field with Marv J. McCarthy of the American League expected to choose between Hank Borowy of the New York Yankees and Tex Hughson of the Boston Red Sox.

Pending definite announcement from Skipper Billy Southworth of the Nationals and McCarthy, baseball men figured today the two pitchers would lead with the ace right-handers. Walters has a 14-3 win record for the Reds. Borowy has won 11 and dropped 4 and Hughson boasts a fancy 13-3 mark.

With Lefty Max Lanier of the Cards out of action for 10 days due to an arm injury, Southworth is expected to follow Walters with Rip Sewell of the host Pittsburgh club and Nate Andrews of the Braves in an attempt to smash the junior circuits 6-year win streak.

Bob Muncie of the Browns and Hal Newhouse of the Tigers are available for late duty with the McCarthy clan and Bobo Newsum of the A's may get a chance to strut his stuff before a sell-out crowd that will approach 40,000 and dump $100,000 into the hat and ball fund for servicemen.

Three American League hurlers, Paul (Dizzy) Trout of the Tigers, Dutch Leonard of the Senators and Orval Grove of the White Sox. (Turn to Page Ten)

Losing Streak of Thirteen Straight Puts Durocher On Spot as Manager of Dodgers

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers seems to be on the spot again. His position, shaky the past few years, has been made more precarious than ever by the current losing streak of the Dodgers, which reached 13 officially yesterday.

Few managers have survived for long such a losing streak, especially in Flatbush where they take their baseball seriously. A nine-game losing streak, which was prolonged to 13, put the skids under Jimmy Wilson of the Chicago Cubs at the start of the season.

Just a year ago today, Durocher's job was jeopardized by a clubhouse rebellion. Several players objected to his handling of a flareup that involved Bobo Newsum and Arky Vaughan. Leo hurdled that obstacle, with the backing of President Branch Rickey. During the winter, Rickey signed the stormy petrel to a contract which can be terminated at five minutes notice.

Brooklyn's 13th successive loss, which matched the season's low set by the Cubs, was handed to them by the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10-1, the opener of a double (Turn to Page Ten)

Magic Putter Is Big Help To M'Spadden

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Minneapolis, Minn., July 10.—Being something of a putting sensation is fairly new for Jug McSpadden, who dropped from the winter golf tour three years ago because he couldn't putt.

At that time, the Philadelphia pro became affectionately known among his colleagues as "Jerk's" McSpadden. He got the shakes when he got a putter in his hand.

"Hours of practice finally snapped me out of it," said Jug, "and then, too, I patched up a putter with an extra heavy club head, and the added weight seemed to help my touch."

PONY LEAGUE

Buffalo, N. Y., July 10.—(P)—The Wellsville Yankees took two games from the Olean Oilers, 11-5, and 6-3, in Pony League games today.

The first was the replay of a protested game of May 24th. The double defeat shoved Olean into the cellar.

Bradford moved up from the basement in its 8-0 win over the Hornell Pirates. The Bluewings got a 4-run lead in the first inning when Third Baseman Don Hasenmayer and Second Sackman George Gaskaska hit triples.

The Erie Sailors downed Lockport, 7-2. Jamestown dropped from second to third place when they lost to Batavia, 5-1.

Only a Few Play Matches

Only a few of the 22 golfers in the Conewago Valley Country Club golf championship play took to the fairways over the weekend with only five matches finished, but the next three days will find most of the remainder playing off their scheduled affairs.

In the first flight play Bill Rice defeated Bob Johnson 2-1 in the tightest match in the competitive select group Saturday afternoon.

The second flight found Nat Drake dropping Bill Simonsen to a 5-7 count. Ray Reed, Jr., taking the long end of a 7-6 score from Ardel Saylor, Devere Kirberger dishing up a 6-5 win over Emmmons Jones and Todd Siggins losing to Henry Carpenter 1-up after leading by a wide margin throughout the first 11 holes.

The Nelson-McSpadden combine finished the 126-hole, match play marathon with a plus of 13 count in the scoring system—a three point edge over the second place team of Bill Kaiser-Hamilton. The two cities twosome of Les Bolstad and Joe Coria finished a surprising third, followed in order by Jimmy Hines-Willie Goggin, Sam Byrd—Johnny Revolta, Pvt. Chick Harbert-Mike Turnesa, Harry Cooper-Ellsworth Vines and Lieut. Ben Hogan-Toney Penna.

Is it ever wise to BORROW?

NO one should borrow unnecessarily, but there are times when a loan is the best solution to a money problem. Thousands of letters in our files tell of the many worth-while things made possible by a Personal loan. If you need extra cash, perhaps a Personal loan would be to your advantage too.

Personal makes loans promptly and privately, without involving outsiders. Sensible monthly payments are arranged and the cost is surprisingly low. For example: $30 for 2 weeks costs less than 83c. Getting a loan at Personal is as simple as opening a charge account. Come in, phone or write us today.

Honus Wagner to Bring His Team to Wilder Field Sunday

Baseball fans of Warren county and the surrounding territory will welcome the announcement, made today by Manager Nick Creola, that definite arrangements have been completed for bringing Honus Wagner's All-Stars, of Pittsburgh, to Wilder Field at Irvine next Sunday afternoon to oppose the unbeaten National Forge and Ordinance nine.

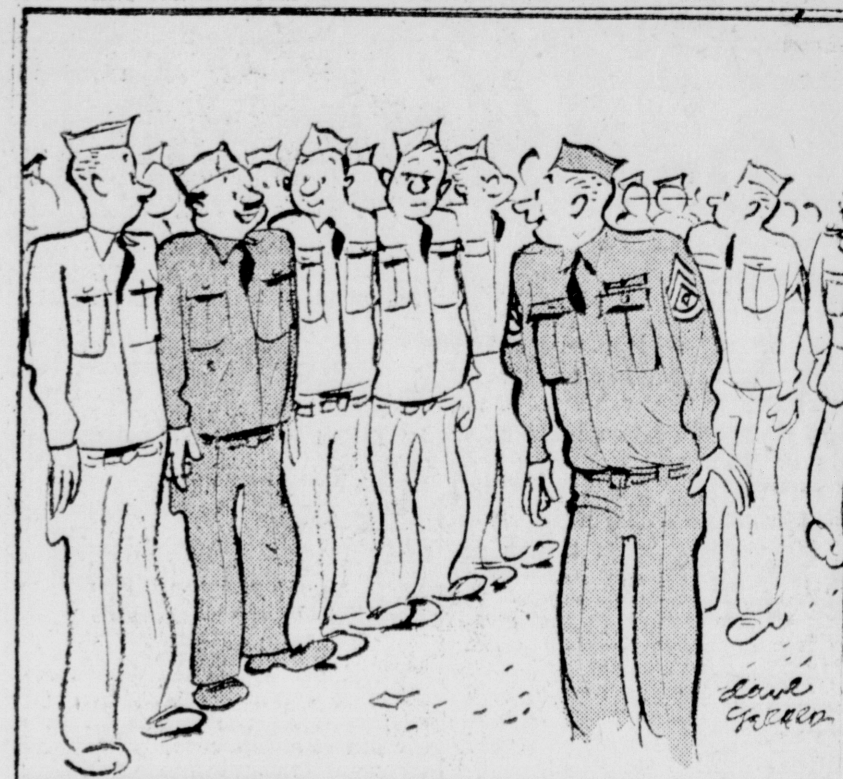

Appearing with the Smokey City nine will be Honus Wagner himself, who needs no introduction to fandom of this vicinity, as well as a galaxy of former minor and major league stars.

Wagner, who last appeared in Warren a few seasons ago with the Pittsburgh Pirates, has a wide personal following here, including many who recall him as an active participant in the big league wars and as one of the greatest, if not the greatest, of all the diamond celebrities.

Although the complete list of Wagner's players for the game at Irvine Sunday has not been announced, it is expected that the official list will be received in time for tomorrow's Times-Mirror.

Advance sale of tickets for the attraction was started today by members of the Forge ball club. Tickets also have been placed on sale in various business places in Warren, Youngsville and Clarendon, a list of which will be announced.

You're lining up with some real champions, when you start your morning meal with a heaping bowlful of milk, fruit, and Wheaties, delicious "second helping" flavor.

best available baseball, it was stated at the Irvine plant today.

PULLED FROM RIVER

A woman who resides near the voting place at Starbrick, waded into the river in that vicinity early this afternoon. She was pulled out by Marshall Moran, who witnessed the incident. In the meantime the rescuer was summoned from the fire department and she was removed to her home. The woman is said to be mentally deficient and is alleged to have been involved in similar incidents in the past, which have been investigated by the sheriff's department.

Livorno. This village is astride the important north-south highway. Lajetico, 21 miles east of Livorno, was threatened by another thrust. In a brisk battle north of Rosignano, the Americans took 80 prisoners.

Supported by 20 tanks, the Germans launched a strong counter-attack against the French in the vicinity of Cranza, 8 1/2 miles east of Volterra, and heavy fighting raged in that section.

In the Apennines, the Eighth Army captured Pietralunga and repulsed two strong Italian counter-attacks. In the upper Tiber valley, a gain of five miles was recorded as the British mopped up Montone and Carpi and pushed on some eight miles northeast of Umbertide.

Medical Student Proves Bad Medicine for Nazis; He's Top U. S. Air Ace Now

By GEORGE SWETNAM
NEA Correspondent

Oil City, July 10—Lt. Col. Francis S. Gabreski of Oil City had planned a quiet career as a physician before the war made him bad medicine for the Nazis.

Today he's the flyer who tops all other American aces with 28 planes shot down in aerial combat.

Quiet and soft-spoken, he worked in his father's grocery store after school and on vacation. He always showed an interest in mechanics, however, and workshop airplanes from afar.

When the Air Cadet program gave him the chance, he left his premedical work at Notre Dame and enlisted in the Air Corps.

His parents, proud of their elder son Thaddeus, who had just completed his work at Notre Dame and begun practice in Oil City, objected at first. Francis convinced them that he would have to go into the Army soon anyway, and won their consent.

He was the first member of his family to enter service before the beginning of the war. Now all the Gabreski children are in service, except his older sister Lottie (who stays at home to help her father in the store).

Dr. Gabreski donned a uniform soon after Pearl Harbor, and is now an Army physician in India with the rank of Major. His youngest brother Max, who reached his eighteenth birthday this year, is in Navy boot camp at Sampson, N. Y. The other sister, Bernice, has joined the Nurse Cadet Corps and is in training at an Erie hospital.

Colonel Gabreski is the son of Polish immigrant parents who came to this country seeking work. His father, Stanley, 58, came to America in 1909 and secured a job as laborer for the Pennsylvania Railroad. Two years later, his mother, who had not known her future husband in the old country, left Poland with a girl friend and found employment here doing housework. The Gabreskis were married in 1912 in the Church of the Assumption, the Polish Catholic church in Oil City to which they and their children still belong.

Gabreski continued as a railroad worker until about the time of the first World War, when he became a machinist in an Oil City shop, continuing in that work until he decided to launch his feed and food store in 1927. Since that time the store has absorbed most of the time and interest of the family. Francis lived the normal life of an American boy as he grew up, working for his father and taking whatever opportunity offered to slip over to the garage near the store and watch and talk to the mechanics.

Things began to happen fast after he left Notre Dame in 1940. He went to Parks Air College, East St. Louis, Ill., then to Maxwell Field, Ala. After receiving his commission, he was sent to Hickam Field, Hawaii, only a short time before the Pearl Harbor attack.

What happened on that grim day, not even his parents have ever been able to get him to tell. The grudging words, "I was in the air," are all the story he ever told on his one brief visit home in July, 1941.

After his flying trip to Oil City, Colonel Gabreski went to England, where he joined the Polish Squadron and won the Polish Cross of Valor, for diving in to shoot down a Nazi plane about to knock down the craft of his commander.

He rejoined the American Air Force and the world has watched his rise to become top American ace, holding the Distinguished Service Cross, Distinguished Flying Cross and other decorations. But there is another side to his life, to which he looks forward after the war. In Hawaii he met Kay Cochran, a 17-year-old Grand Rapids, Mich., girl who was staying with her uncle, Col. C. B. Bruce, and who decided she would like to be the wife of a Pennsylvania physician. They had become engaged before he left the Islands, and now she and Mrs. Bruce are waiting in a little Wisconsin town for the two Colonels to come home from the war.

Truck Smacks Two Cars—Loss Quite Heavy

Police Saturday investigated an automobile crash on Lexington avenue in which two passenger cars were badly damaged and a Ford truck suffered a badly smashed radiator, etc. The Ford truck was driven by E. J. Landis, who was engaged in closing the ventilator while driving. In some way his attention was distracted and the truck plowed into the parked car. This machine was shoved into another and the damage done to the two cars is estimated at $320. The cars damaged were owned by Robert D. Hullings, 744 Amherst street, Buffalo, N. Y. The one it was forced into was owned by H. C. Hullings, 20 Lexington avenue. The New York state car was damaged to the extent of $300 and the Warren owned car suffered $20 damage. The truck of Mr. Landis was covered by insurance.

in a series of ads on

The question of post-war jobs—especially for returning veterans—is a big one and a live one. It will get more so as the war comes nearer its end.

Our own job security plan for Esso Marketers' employees now in uniform went into operation the day after Pearl Harbor. It has worked so well for so long that we want to pass our experience along.

In general, it is based on the idea that we are saving his place for our fighting man while he's away, whether he volunteered, was drafted, or was called up as a reservist. Chief features of the plan are these...

1. Each employee who has been with us a year or longer is given two months' salary as he enters the armed forces.

2. His dependents receive monthly payments from the company while he is away—up to half of his former company pay.

3. Each employee has been assured by letter from our company president that his old job—or another as good or better—will be waiting for him. Experience gained in the Armed Forces may result in his immediate advancement.

4. His rights in company retirement and benefit plans are protected while he is away.

DETAILS of the plan have been put into a booklet which we shall be glad to send you.*

Soon we will announce in this newspaper further plans for making some good new jobs in the oil business after the war.

As we see it today, next to winning the war itself, nothing is more important than the matter of post-war jobs.

porium where he had canned a comfortable package. Not being in much of a condition to explain the loss of the watch the fellow and his pal were both taken to the police station to spend the evening.

Report was received that a drunk was asleep in the park at East street but investigation showed it to be a worthy burgher who was not drunk but merely snoozing in the humid air while enjoying the shade.

The State Police teletype carried information regarding an automobile that had been stolen at Erie. It is a black Ford sedan of 1939 with license plate No. 2434V. It is suspected that the car was taken by a fellow on whom the Erie police were closing a drag net on several quite serious charges.

SUBPOENA IN DIVORCE

In Warren County, Common Pleas, No. 36 March Term, 1944.

Arda M. Mason, Libellant, vs. Seymour V. Mason, Respondent.

To the above named Respondent: Whereas, subpoena and alias subpoena have been returned "Non est inventus" in this case, you are therefore hereby notified to be and appear in your proper person before the Judge of said Court at the Court House in the Borough of Warren, at a Court of Common Pleas, in and for said county, there to be held on the first Monday in August, being the seventh day, to answer the complaint of the Libellant and show cause, if any you have, why a divorce from the bonds of matrimony should not be granted to the Libellant agreeably to the prayer of the petition or libel exhibited against you before the said Court and the Acts of Assembly in such cases made and provided. And this you shall nowise omit at your peril.

and two National chuckers, Jim Tobin and Al Javery of the Braves, were practically eliminated from consideration by working Sunday games. It is not likely that any of the quintet will be used with only one day's rest in relief emergency.

Unless Southworth calls in the Phil's Ken Raffensberger, the Americans will see all right-handed hurling. With that in mind, players trekked into town today following Sunday doubleheaders as club owners and executives held separate major league meetings to discuss additional night ball, continuation of the office of high commissioner held by K. M. Landis, whose term expires in 1946, and a change in the system of acquiring players.

The Cardinals handed the Boston Braves a double blanking, with Mort Cooper winning his 10th game in the opener, 1-0, as Stan Musial and brother Walker Cooper combined to score the lone run off Jim Tobin. Harry Brecheen gained his seventh win in the nightcap, 9-0.

header. They almost tied the longest losing streak in the history of the club when they trailed 9-7 in the nightcap, called at the end of eight innings by Pennsylvania's 6:50 curfew law. The game will be completed later.

After losing seven out of nine to Detroit, the New York Yankees made an about face and swept a war relief double header from the Tigers, 4-3 and 8-2 before 33,482, who paid $38,102.50. The double victory moved the Yankees to within a game of the second place Boston Red Sox.

The League leading St. Louis Browns and the Washington Senators exchanged shutouts. The Browns, behind Newman Shirley's 10-0, and the Senators, with Dutch Leonard pitching five-hit ball, took the second, 5-0.

The Red Sox and Cleveland split their double header, the Indians winning the opener, 8-2 and the Red Sox the second, 4-2. Bobby Doerr of the Red Sox became the first American league batter to make 100 hits. Pat Seery of the Indians and Bob Johnson of the Sox each hit his eighth homer of the year.

Frank Hayes batted his 10th homer as the Chicago White Sox and the Philadelphia Athletics divided their twin-bill, the White Sox taking the opener, 4-3, for Bill Dietrich's 10th victory, and the A's annexing the finale, 8-2.

The St. Louis Cardinals handed the Boston Braves a double blanking, with Mort Cooper winning his 10th game in the opener, 1-0, as Stan Musial and brother Walker Cooper combined to score the lone run off Jim Tobin. Harry Brecheen gained his seventh win in the nightcap, 9-0.

The Chicago Cubs climbed out of the cellar as they defeated the New York Giants twice, 6-2 and 1-0. Claude Passeau shaded Bill Voiselle in the second game as Andy Pafko singled with the bases loaded in the sixth inning.

The Cincinnati Reds moved to within five percentage points of second place with a double victory over Philadelphia 9-5 and 7-5.

Woody Williams made six hits for the Reds.
